D. Risk Factors

Risks Relating to the Region

The Bank's credit portfolio is concentrated in Latin America and the Caribbean. The Bank also faces borrower concentration. Adverse economic changes in those countries or in the condition of the Bank's largest borrowers could affect adversely the Bank's growth, asset quality, prospects, profitability and financial condition.

The Bank's credit activities are concentrated in Central and South America and the Caribbean (the "Region"), which is a reflection of the Bank's mission and strategy. Historically, economies of countries in the Region have occasionally experienced significant volatility characterized, in some cases, by political uncertainty, slow growth or recession, declining investments, government and private sector debt defaults and restructurings, significant inflation and/or devaluation. Global economic changes, including oil prices, commodities prices, the U.S. dollar interest rates and exchange rate, and slower economic growth in industrialized countries, could have a significant adverse effect on the economic condition of countries in the Region. In turn, adverse changes affecting the economies of countries in the Region could have a significant adverse impact on the quality of the Bank's credit portfolio, including increased loan loss provisions, debt restructurings, and loan losses. As a result, this could also have an adverse impact on the Bank's asset growth, asset quality, prospects, profitability and financial condition.

The Bank's credit activities are concentrated in a relatively small number of countries, which could have an adverse impact on the Bank's credit portfolio and, as a result, its financial condition, growth, prospects, results of operations and financial condition if one or more of those countries encounters economic difficulties. At December 31, 2007, approximately 67% of the Bank's credit portfolio was outstanding to borrowers in the following four countries: Brazil ($1,728 million, or 36%); Colombia ($530 million, or 11%); Peru ($484 million, or 10%); and Mexico ($451 million, or 9%).

In addition, at December 31, 2007, 11% of the Bank's total credits were to five borrowers in Brazil, and 13% of total credits were to four borrowers from Peru (5%), Colombia (3%), Mexico (2%) and Venezuela (3%). A significant deterioration of the financial or economic condition of any of these countries or borrowers could have an adverse impact on the Bank's credit portfolio, requiring the Bank to create additional allowances for credit losses, or suffer credit losses with the effect being accentuated because of this concentration.

Local country foreign exchange controls or currency devaluation may harm the Bank's borrowers' ability to pay U.S. dollar-denominated obligations.

The Bank makes mostly U.S. dollar-denominated loans and investments. As a result, the Bank faces the risk that local country foreign exchange controls will restrict the ability of the Bank's borrowers, even if they are exporters, to acquire dollars to repay loans on a timely basis, and/or that significant currency devaluation will occur, which could increase the cost, in local currency terms, to the Bank's borrowers of acquiring dollars to repay loans.

Increased risk perception in countries in the Region where the Bank has large credit exposure could have an adverse impact on the Bank's credit ratings, funding activities and funding costs.

Increased risk perception in any country in the Region where the Bank has large exposures could trigger downgrades to the Bank's credit ratings. A credit rating downgrade would likely increase the Bank's funding costs, and reduce its deposit base and access to the debt capital markets. In that case, the Bank's ability to obtain the necessary funding to carry on its financing activities in the Region at meaningful levels could be severely hampered.

Risks Relating to the Bank's Business

Bladex faces liquidity risk, and its failure to adequately manage this risk could result in a liquidity shortage, which could adversely affect its financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

Bladex, like all financial institutions, faces liquidity risk, or the risk of not being able to maintain adequate cash flow to repay its deposits and borrowings, and fund its credit portfolio on a timely basis. Failure to adequately manage its liquidity risk could produce a cash shortage as a result of which the Bank would not be able to repay these obligations as they become due.

Approximately one third of the Bank's funding represents short-term borrowings from international banks, the majority of which are European and North American institutions, which also compete with the Bank in its credit extension activity, and represent a source of business for the Bank, as well. If these international banks ceased to provide funding to the Bank, the Bank would have to seek funding from other sources, which may not be available, or if available, may be at higher interest cost.

Financial turnmoil in the international markets could negatively impact liquidity in the financial markets, reducing the Bank's access to credit or increasing its cost of funding, which could lead to tighter lending standards. An example of this situation is the liquidity constraint experienced since the second half of 2007 in the international financial markets, driven by the subprime crisis in the United States. The persistence or worsening of these unfavorable market conditions could have a material adverse effect on the Bank's liquidity.

As a U.S. dollar-based economy, Panama does not have a central bank in the traditional sense, and there is no lender of last resort to the banking system in the country. Central banks in other Latin American and Caribbean countries would not be obligated to act as lenders of last resort if Bladex were to face a liquidity shortage. Accordingly, if the Bank faced a liquidity shortage, it would have to rely on commercial liquidity sources to resolve the liquidity shortage.

The Bank's allowances for credit losses could be inadequate to cover credit losses related to its loans and contingencies.

The Bank determines the appropriate level of allowances for credit losses based on a process that estimates the probable loss inherent in its portfolio, which is the result of a statistical analysis supported by the Bank's historical portfolio performance and the Bank's management's qualitative judgment. The latter includes assumptions and estimates made in the context of changing political and economic conditions in the Region. The Bank's allowances could be inadequate to cover losses in its credit portfolio due to exposure concentration, which in turn, could have a material adverse effect on the Bank's financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

The Bank's businesses are subject to market risk.

Market risk generally represents the risk that values of assets and liabilities or revenues will be adversely affected by changes in market conditions. Market risk is inherent in the financial instruments associated with many of the Bank's operations and activities, including loans, deposits, investment and trading securities, short-term borrowings, long-term debt, derivatives and trading positions. Among many other market conditions that may shift from time to time are fluctuations in interest and currency exchange rates, changes in the implied volatility of interest rates and changes in securities prices, due to changes in either market perception or actual credit quality of either the issuer or its country of origin. Accordingly, depending on the instruments or activities impacted, market risks can have wide ranging, complex adverse affects on the Bank's financial condition, results of operations, cash flows and business. See Item 11, "Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosure About Market Risk".

The Bank faces interest rate risk which is caused by the mismatch in maturities of interest earning assets and interest bearing liabilities. If not properly managed, this mismatch can reduce net interest income as interest rates fluctuate.

As a bank, Bladex faces interest rate risk because interest-bearing liabilities generally reprice at a different pace than interest-earning assets. Failure to adequately manage eventual mismatches may reduce the Bank's net interest income during periods of fluctuating interest rates.

Operational problems or errors can have a material adverse impact on the Bank's business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

Bladex, like all financial institutions, is exposed to operational risks, including the risk of fraud by employees and outsiders, failure to obtain proper internal authorizations, failure to properly document transactions, equipment failures, and errors by employees. Operational problems or errors may occur, and their occurrence may have a material adverse impact on the Bank's business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

Bladex, has an Operational Risk department that evaluates the operational risk level of every key product or process that could have an impact on the financial statements. This department coordinates periodic training for all personnel and auto-evaluations with the participation of those personnel controlling each process. Each incident reported, with real or potential loss, is registered in an operational risk database, and on a quarterly basis, the Bank's management is informed of the relevant incidents that occurred (if any) and the suggested mitigation plan.

The Bank's credit portfolio may not continue to grow at the same or similar rate.

No assurance can be given that, in the future, the Bank's credit portfolio, including the Bank's foreign trade portfolio, will continue to grow at historical rates. A reversal in the growth rate of the Region's economy and trade volumes could adversely affect the growth rate of the Bank's credit portfolio.

Increased competition and banking industry consolidation could limit the Bank's ability to grow and may adversely affect results of operations.

Most of the competition the Bank faces in the trade finance business comes from international banks, the majority of which are European and North American institutions. Many of these international banks have substantially greater resources than the Bank and enjoy access to less expensive funding than the Bank does. There can be no assurance that increased competition will not adversely affect the Bank's growth prospects and results of operations.

Merger activity in the financial services industry has produced companies that are capable of offering a wide array of financial products and services at competitive prices. Globalization of the capital markets and financial services industries exposes the Bank to further competition. The Bank's ability to grow its business and, therefore, its earnings, is affected by these competitive pressures.

Any delays or failure to implement business initiatives that the Bank may undertake could prevent the Bank from realizing the anticipated revenues and benefits of the initiatives.

Part of the Bank's strategy is to diversify income sources through business initiatives, including targeting new clients and developing new products and services. These initiatives may not be fully implemented within the time frame the Bank expects, or at all. In addition, even if such initiatives are fully implemented, they may not generate revenues as expected. Any delays in implementing these business initiatives could prevent the Bank from realizing the anticipated benefits of the initiatives, which could adversely affect the Bank's business, results of operations and growth prospects.

Item 4. Information on the Company

A. History and Development of the Company

The Bank, headquartered in Panama City, Panama, is a specialized supranational bank originally established by central banks of Latin American and Caribbean countries to promote trade finance in the Region. The Bank was established pursuant to a May 1975 proposal of the XX Assembly of Governors of central banks in the Region, which recommended the creation of a supranational organization to increase the Region's foreign trade financing capacity. The Bank was constituted in 1978 as a corporation pursuant to the laws of the Republic of Panama as "Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones, S.A." and commenced operations on January 2, 1979. The Bank operates under the commercial name of "Bladex." Panama was selected as the location of the Bank's headquarters because of the country's importance as a Regional banking center, the benefits of a fully U.S. dollar-based economy, the absence of foreign exchange controls, its geographic location, and the quality of its communications facilities. Under special legislation enacted in 1978, the Bank was granted certain privileges by the government of Panama, including an exemption from payment of income taxes in Panama.

Bladex offers its services through the Bank's head office and subsidiaries in Panama City, and its subsidiaries and offices in New York City, including its agency (the "New York Agency") and Bladex Asset Management, Inc. ("Bladex Asset Management"), its subsidiaries in Brazil and the Cayman Islands, its international administrative office in Miami and its representative offices in Mexico City and Buenos Aires as well as through a worldwide network of correspondent banks. Bladex's head office is located at Calle 50 y Aquilino de la Guardia, Panama City, Panama, and its telephone number is 011-507-210-8500. See Item 18, "Financial Statements", note 1.

B. Business Overview

Overview

The Bank's mission is to provide seamless support to Latin America's foreign trade, while creating value for its stockholders. The Bank is principally engaged in providing trade financing to selected commercial banks and corporations in the Region.

Bladex intermediates in the financial and capital markets throughout the Region, through three business platforms:

The Commercial Division, which comprises the Bank's financial intermediation and fee generation activities, including the Bank's trade finance products, such as loans for pre - and post-export financing and import of goods, letters of credit, banker's acceptances and guarantees. The majority of the Bank's loans are extended in connection with specific identified foreign trade transactions. Through its revenue diversification strategy, the Bank's Commercial Division has introduced a broader range of products, services and solutions associated with foreign trade, including co-financing arrangements, underwriting of syndicated credit facilities, structured trade financing, asset-based financing in the form of factoring, vendor financing and leasing, as well as other fee-based business, like U.S.-clearing electronic services.

The Treasury Division, which is responsible for ensuring the Bank's funding and liquidity, for the management of its interest rate, liquidity and currency risks, and for Bladex's investments in fixed-income securities.

The Bank's lending and investing activities are funded by interbank deposits, primarily from central banks and financial institutions in the Region, by borrowings from international commercial banks and, to a lesser extent, by sales of the Bank's debt securities to financial institutions and investors in Japan, Europe, North America and the Region. The Bank does not provide retail banking services to the general public, such as retail savings accounts or checking accounts, and does not take retail deposits.

The Asset Management Division, which is based in New York and commenced operations in April 2006, provides investment advisory services to funds and managed accounts, and conducts business through the Bladex Offshore Feeder Fund ("the Feeder") and the Bladex Capital Growth Fund ("the Fund") incorporated in the Cayman Islands. The Asset Management Division incorporates the investment manager, Bladex Asset Management, and the Bank's investment in any of the managed funds or accounts. The Asset Management Division's objective is to achieve above average long-term rates of return, while also attempting to preserve capital, mitigate risk and produce returns, which, over the long-term, have low correlation to the returns of the major U.S. equity and investment grade fixed income indices.

At December 31, 2007, the Bank had 49 officers across its offices responsible for marketing the Bank's financial products and services to existing and potential customers.

Historically, trade finance generally has not been negatively affected by Latin American debt restructurings. This has been due, in part, to the perceived importance that governments and borrowers in the Region attach to maintaining their access to trade finance. In the case of Bladex, the Bank generally has enjoyed "preferred creditor" status in several countries in the Region, which has strengthened its position in respect of debt restructurings. The Bank, due in part to its preferred creditor status, generally has been allowed to negotiate directly with the governments of these countries concerning its loans, as opposed to negotiating indirectly as a member of a group of creditors in debt restructuring proceedings. In addition, the Bank's preferred creditor status has generally exempted it from convertibility and transfer limitations of U.S. dollars for payment of external obligations. The Bank believes that its preferred creditor status is partially attributable to its relationship with its Class A stockholders consisting of central banks or governmental financial institutions from 23 countries in the Region.

Developments During 2007

During 2007, the Bank continued the successful execution of its revenue diversification strategy among its three business divisions.

The Commercial Division achieved corporate client base growth and portfolio diversification, resulting in a 16% increase in its average credit portfolio over 2006, with approximately $8 billion in credits granted. The growth of the Bank's credit and other business activities was achieved while maintaining credit quality, resulting in no past due or non-accrual loans at the end of the year 2007.

The Treasury Division continued the expansion of its revenue-driven activities, increasing its securities available-for-sale portfolio by 35%. This portfolio is comprised of liquid, Latin American fixed income securities of high credit quality. In addition, the Treasury Division was able to effectively manage and strengthen the Bank's liquidity position, in spite of the increased level of uncertainty in international markets since August of 2007, as a result of the subprime crisis in the United States. During 2007, the Bank closed its first-ever funding transactions denominated in local currencies of the Region, including a bond issuance in Peruvian Nuevo Soles and inter-bank borrowings and loans denominated in Mexican Pesos; the Bank also signed a five-year international loan syndication for an amount of $150 million, and a three-year borrowing for an additional $75 million, and updated its $2.25 billion European Medium-Term Note ("EMTN") program.

The Asset Management Division was successful in its proprietary asset management activities and earned above-average returns. As a result, along with the Bank's commitment to the industry's best practices in risk management and operational control, the Bank obtained the approval of U.S. regulators to offer investment advisory services to qualified offshore investors.

In quantitative terms, these activities resulted in a 25% increase in net income, which totaled $72 million, compared to $58 million in 2006. See Item 5, "Operating and Financial Review and Prospects/Operating Results/Net Income" and Item 18, “Financial Statements”, note 22.

Strategy for 2008

For 2008, Bladex intends to continue focusing its efforts on diversifying its revenue sources across its three business units, with the objective of achieving improved return on equity levels, while preserving and optimizing the Bank's stockholders' equity.

The Commercial Division intends to continue developing a stronger client base, focused towards a growing corporate segment, and continuing the implementation of a wider product range, including factoring, vendor financing and leasing, which in turn should result in increasing the Bank's capacity and execution of fee income generation.

The Bank also intends to continue to expand its Treasury Division activities, by increasing its available-for-sale and held-to-maturity fixed income portfolio throughout the Region, and to issue additional bonds in other Latin American markets.

The Asset Management Division intends to continue to expand its operations and expects to offer its services to third-party investors, in order to generate additional fee income.

Lending Policies

The Bank extends credit directly to banks, corporations and state-owned export organizations within the Region. The Bank analyzes credit requests from eligible borrowers in light of credit risk criteria, including economic and market conditions. The Bank maintains a consistent lending policy and applies the same credit criteria to all types of potential borrowers in evaluating creditworthiness.

The Bank finances import and export transactions for all goods and products, with the exception of articles such as weapons, ammunition, military equipment, hallucinogenic drugs or narcotics not utilized for medical purposes. Imports and exports financed by the Bank are destined for buyers/sellers in countries both inside and outside the Region.

The Bank's loans generally are unsecured. However, in certain instances, based upon its credit review of the borrower and the economic and political situation and trends in the borrower's home country, the Bank has determined that the level of risk involved requires that a loan be secured by pledged deposits.

Country Credit Limits

Bladex has a methodology for capital allocation by country and its risk weights for assets. The Credit Policy and Risk Assessment Committee of the Board of Directors ("CPER") approves a level of "allocated capital" for each country, instead of nominal exposure limits. These country capital limits are reviewed at least annually in the quarterly meetings of the CPER. The system establishes the capital equivalent of each transaction, based on the internal numeric rating assigned to each country, which is approved by the CPER.

The amounts of capital allocated take into account the customer type (sovereign, state-owned or private, corporate or financial institutions), the type of transaction (trade or non-trade), and the average remaining term of the transaction (from 1 to 180 days, 181 days to a year, between one and three years, or more than three years). Capital utilizations by the business units should not exceed the Bank's reported stockholders' equity.

Borrower Lending Limits

Generally the Bank establishes lines of credit for each borrower according to the results of its risk analysis and potential business prospects; however, the Bank is not required to lend under these lines of credit. Once a line of credit has been established, credit generally is extended after receipt of a request from the borrower for financing, usually related to foreign trade. Loan pricing is determined in accordance with prevailing market conditions and the borrower's creditworthiness.

For existing borrowers, the Bank's management has authority to approve credit lines up to the legal lending limit prescribed by Panamanian law (see Item 4, "Information on the Company/Business Overview/Regulation—Panamanian Law"), provided that the credit lines comply fully with the country credit limits and conditions for the borrower's country of domicile set by the Bank's Board of Directors (the "Board"). Approved borrower lending limits are reported to the CPER quarterly. Panamanian Banking Law prescribes certain concentration limits, which are applicable and strictly adhered to by the Bank, including a thirty percent (30%) limit as a percentage of capital and reserves for any one borrower and borrower group, in the case of financial institutions, and a twenty-five percent (25%) limit as a percentage of capital and reserves for any one borrower and borrower group, in the case of corporate and sovereign borrowers. As of December 31, 2007, the legal lending limit prescribed by Panamanian law for corporations and sovereign borrowers amounted to approximately $153 million, and for financial institutions and financial groups amounted to approximately $184 million. On a quarterly basis, the CPER reviews the impaired portfolio, if any, along with certain non-impaired credits.

At December 31, 2007, the Bank was in full compliance with all regulatory limits. See Item 4, "Information on the Company/Business Overview/Regulation/Panamanian Law".

Credit Portfolio

The Bank's credit portfolio consists of the commercial portfolio and the treasury portfolio.

Contingencies and other assets

The Bank's contingencies and other assets included in the commercial portfolio consist of selected financial instruments with off-balance sheet credit risk and customer liabilities under acceptances.

The Bank, on behalf of its client base, advises and confirms letters of credit to facilitate foreign trade transactions. The Bank also provides stand-by letters of credit and guarantees, including country risk guarantees, which cover the country risk arising from the risk of convertibility and transferability of local currency of countries in the Region into hard currency and from political risks, such as expropriation, nationalization, war and/or civil disturbances. The Bank also provides commitments to extend credit, which are a combination of either non-binding or legal agreements to lend to a customer.

The Bank applies the same credit policies used in its lending process to its evaluation of these instruments, and, once issued, the commitment is irrevocable and remains valid until its expiration. At December 31, 2007, total contingencies and other assets in the commercial portfolio amounted to $550 million, representing 13% of the Bank's total commercial portfolio. See Item 18, "Financial Statements," note 16.

Treasury Portfolio

The treasury portfolio includes investment securities and credit default swaps (an off-balance sheet credit derivative product), which totaled $468 million and $3 million, respectively, at December 31, 2007.

Investment Securities

The Bank's investment securities consist mostly of debt securities held to maturity and securities available for sale. See Item 18, "Financial Statements", notes 2 (g) and 5.

In the normal course of business, the Bank utilizes interest rate swaps for hedging purposes in its assets (mainly its investment securities) and liabilities management activities.

At December 31, 2007, the Bank's investment securities portfolio totaled $468 million and consisted of investments with issuers in the Region, of which 67% were banks and sovereign borrowers and 33% were corporations. For the year 2007, the Bank's total securities portfolio had a weighted average interest rate of 5.99% per annum.

Asset Management Portfolio

The asset management portfolio includes trading assets and liabilities of the Asset Management Division, which is the investment manager of the Fund. At December 31, 2007, the fair value of trading assets was $53 million and the fair value of trading liabilities was $91 million. See Item 18, "Financial Statements", notes 1, 2 (f), 4, and 20.

The Fund follows a multi-strategy/multi-product trading approach striving to take advantage of Latin American and Caribbean opportunities. The Fund takes long and short positions within the equity, fixed income and foreign exchange markets.

The Board of Directors of the Fund controls the exposure of the Fund to certain risks through a risk matrix, which contains guidelines and parameters that the Fund's managers must follow. Specific risk management guidelines include constraints regarding capital usage, portfolio concentration, among other factors.

In allocating country risk limits, the Bank takes into consideration several factors, including the Bank's perception of country risk levels, business opportunities, and economic and political analysis, applying a portfolio management approach.

Cross-border outstandings in countries outside the Region correspond principally to the Bank's liquidity placements. See Item 5, "Operating and Financial Review and Prospects/Liquidity and Capital Resources/Liquidity".

See Item 4, "Information on the Company/Business Overview/Commercial Portfolio, Treasury Portfolio and Asset Management Portfolio" and Item 5, "Operating and Financial Review and Prospects/Operating Results/Net Income".

Competition

The Bank operates in a highly competitive environment in most of its markets, and faces competition principally from regional and international banks in making loans, and providing fee-generating services. The Bank competes in its lending and deposit taking activities with other banks and international financial institutions, many of which have greater financial resources and offer sophisticated banking services. Whenever economic conditions and risk perception improve in the largest countries of the Region, competition from commercial banks, the securities markets and other new participants tends to increase. Competition may have the effect of reducing the spreads of the Bank's lending rates over its funding costs and constraining the Bank's profitability.

The trade finance business is subject to change. Increased open account exports and new financing requirements from multinational corporations are changing the way banks intermediate foreign trade financing. The Bank cannot predict with certainty the changes that may occur and how these may affect the competitiveness of its businesses.

The Bank believes that competition also comes from investment banks and the local and international securities markets, which provide liquidity to the financial systems in certain countries in the Region, as well as non-bank specialized financial institutions. The Bank competes primarily on the basis of pricing and quality of service. See Item 3, "Key Information/Risk Factors".

Regulation

General

The Superintendency of Banks of Panama (the "Superintendency of Banks") regulates, supervises and examines Bladex. The New York Agency is regulated, supervised and examined by the New York Banking Department and the Federal Reserve Board and the Florida International Administrative Office is regulated, supervised and examined by the Florida Office of Financial Regulation and the Federal Reserve Board. Bladex Offshore Feeder Fund and Bladex Capital Growth Fund are regulated by government authorities in the Cayman Islands. The regulation of the Bank by relevant Panamanian authorities differs from the regulation generally imposed on banks, including foreign banks, in the United States by U.S. federal and state regulatory authorities.

The Superintendency of Banks has signed and executed agreements or letters of understanding with twenty-four foreign supervisory authorities for the sharing of supervisory information under the principles of reciprocity, appropriateness, national agreement, and confidentiality. Those twenty-four entities include the Federal Reserve System, the Office of the Comptroller of Currency and the Board of Governors, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Office of Thrift Supervision. In addition, the Statement of Cooperation between the United States and Panama promotes cooperation between U.S. and Panamanian banking regulators and demonstrates the commitment of the U.S. regulators and the Superintendency of Banks to the principles of comprehensive consolidated supervision.

Panamanian Law

The Bank operates in Panama under a General Banking License issued by the National Banking Commission, predecessor of the Superintendency of Banks, and is subject to supervision and examination by the Superintendency of Banks, pursuant to Decree-Law No. 9 of February 26, 1998 (the "Banking Law"). Banks operating under a General Banking License ("General License Banks") may engage in all aspects of the banking business in Panama, including taking local and offshore deposits, as well as making local and international loans.

General License Banks must have paid-in capital of not less than $10 million. Additionally, General License Banks must maintain minimum capital of 8% of their total risk-weighted assets. The capital adequacy standards used by the Superintendency of Banks are based on the Basel Capital Accord. The Superintendency of Banks is authorized to increase the minimum capital requirement percentage in Panama in the event that generally accepted international capitalization standards as set forth in the Basel Capital Accord become more stringent.

General License Banks are required to maintain 30% of their global deposits in liquid assets (which include short-term loans to other banks and other liquid assets) of the type prescribed by the Superintendency of Banks. Under the Banking Law, deposits from central banks and other similar depositories of the international reserves of sovereign states are immune from attachment or seizure proceedings.

Pursuant to the Banking Law, banks cannot grant loans or issue guarantees or any other obligation ("Credit Facilities") to any one person or a group of related persons in excess of twenty-five percent (25%) of the Bank's total capital. However, the Banking Law established that in cases of loans and other credits granted by mixed-capital banks with headquarters in Panama whose principal business is the granting of loans to other banks, the limit will be thirty percent (30%) of the Bank´s capital funds. As confirmed by the Superintendency of Banks, the Bank currently applies the limit of thirty percent (30%) of the Bank's total capital with respect to the Bank's credit facilities in favor of financial institutions and the limit of twenty-five percent (25%) of the Bank's total capital with respect to the Bank's credit facilities in favor of corporations and sovereign borrowers.

Under the Banking Law, a bank may not grant loans or issue guarantees or any other obligation to "related parties" that exceed (1) 5% of its total capital, in the case of unsecured transactions, (2) 10% of its total capital, in the case of collateralized transactions (other than loans secured by deposits in the bank), and (3) 50% of its total capital in the case of loans secured by deposits in the bank. For these purposes, a "related party" is (a) any one or more of the bank's directors, (b) any stockholder of the bank who directly or indirectly owns 5% or more of the issued and outstanding capital stock of the bank, (c) any company of which one or more of the bank's directors is a director or officer or where one or more of the bank's directors is a guarantor of the loan or credit facility, (d) any company or entity in which the bank or any one of its directors or officers can exercise a controlling influence, (e) any company or entity in which the bank or any one of its directors or officers owns 20% or more of the outstanding and issued capital stock of the company or entity and (f) managers, officers and employees of the bank, or their respective spouses (other than home mortgage loans or guaranteed personal loans under general programs approved by the bank for employees).

The Superintendency of Banks may authorize the total or partial exclusion of loans or credits from the computation of these limitations in cases of unsecured loans and other credits granted by mixed-capital banks with headquarters in Panama whose principal business is the granting of loans to other banks, which is the case of the Bank. This authorization is contingent on the following conditions: (i) the ownership of shares in the debtor bank -directly or indirectly-by the shared director or shared officer, may not exceed five percent (5%) of the bank's capital, or may not amount to any sum that would ensure his or her majority control over the decisions of the bank; (ii) the ownership of shares in the creditor bank-directly or indirectly-by the debtor bank represented in any manner by the shared director or shared officer, may not exceed five percent (5%) of the shares outstanding of the creditor bank, or may not amount to any sum that would ensure his or her majority control over the decisions of the bank; (iii) the shared director or shared officer must abstain from participating in the deliberations and in the voting sessions held by the creditor bank regarding the loan or credit request, and (iv) the loan or credit must strictly comply with customary standards of discretion set by the grantor bank's credit policy. The Superintendency of Banks will determine the amount of the exclusion in the case of each loan or credit submitted for its consideration.

The Banking Law contains additional limitations and restrictions with respect to related party loans and credit facilities. For instance, under the Banking Law, all loans made to managers, officers, employees or stockholders who are owners of 5% or more of the lending Bank's outstanding and issued capital stock will be made on terms and conditions similar to those given by the bank to its clients in arm's-length transactions and which reflect market conditions. Shares of a bank cannot be pledged or offered as security for loans or credit facilities issued by the bank.

In addition to the foregoing requirements, there are certain other restrictions applicable to General License Banks, including (1) a requirement that a bank must notify the Superintendency of Banks before opening or closing a branch or office in Panama and obtain approval from the Superintendency of Banks before opening or closing a branch or subsidiary outside Panama, (2) a requirement that a bank obtain approval from the Superintendency of Banks before it liquidates its operations, merges or consolidates with another bank or sells all or substantially all of its assets, (3) a requirement that a bank must notify the Superintendency of Banks, within sixty (60) days prior to the beginning of each fiscal term, the name of the certified public accounting firm that it wishes to contract to carry out the duty of external auditing for the new fiscal term, and (4) a requirement that a bank obtains prior approval from the Superintendency of Banks of the risk rating entity it wishes to hire to perform the risk rating. The subsidiaries of Panamanian banks established in foreign jurisdictions must observe the legal and regulatory provisions applicable in Panama regarding the sufficiency of capital, as prescribed under the Banking Law.

The Banking Law provides that banks in Panama are subject to inspection by the Superintendency of Banks, which must take place at least once every two years. These supervisory powers of the Superintendency of Banks also extend to a bank's subsidiaries and branches. The Superintendency of Banks last inspected the Bank during April and May 2006, and the results of this inspection were fully satisfactory.

The Superintendency of Banks is empowered to request from any bank or any company that belongs to the economic group of which a bank in Panama is a member, the documents and reports pertaining to its operations and activities. Banks are required to file with the Superintendency of Banks monthly, quarterly and annual information, including financial statements, an analysis of their credit facilities and any other information requested by the Superintendency of Banks. In addition, banks are required to make available for inspection any reports or documents that are necessary for the Superintendency of Banks to ensure compliance with Panamanian banking laws and regulations. Banks subject to supervision may be fined by the Superintendency of Banks for violations of Panamanian banking laws and regulations.

On February 22, 2008, the Panamanian cabinet voted to adopt Decree-Law No. 2 (the "New Banking Law"), which is a revision and restatement of the Banking Law. This new legislation will take effect on August 25, 2008. The New Banking Law regulates banks and the entire "banking group" to which each bank belongs. Banking groups are defined as the holding company and all direct and indirect subsidiaries of the holding company, including the bank in question. Banking groups must comply with audit standards and various limitations set forth in the New Banking Law, in addition to all compliance required of the bank in question.

Under the New Banking Law, a bank's capital composition will include tertiary capital in addition to primary and secondary capital, and the sum of secondary and tertiary capital cannot exceed primary capital. Tertiary capital will be made up of short-term subordinated debt incurred for the management of market risk. Capital adequacy standards will require primary capital equal to no less than 4% of the bank's assets and off-balance sheet operations that represent a contingency to the bank, as well as the previous requirement of maintaining a minimum capital of 8% of its total risk-weighted assets. Additionally, the Superintendency of Banks may take into account market risks, operational risks and country risks, among others, to evaluate capital adequacy standards.

The New Banking Law will limit loans, guarantees and other similar obligations granted to "related parties" by the bank as well as by the ultimate parent of the banking group. The new definition of related parties also includes parties related to the ultimate parent of the banking group.

The supervisory powers of the Superintendency of Banks will extend to the bank and the banking group, and any inspection carried out by the Superintendency of Banks may involve an inspection of the banking group. As a result, the bank, as well as the banking group, must make available for inspection any reports or documents that are necessary for the Superintendency of Banks to ensure compliance with Panamanian banking laws and regulations.

The Bank has not been significantly impacted by the incorporation of these changes regarding the New Banking Law.

Panamanian Anti-Money Laundering laws and regulations. In Panama, all banks and trust corporations must take necessary measures to prevent their operations and/or transactions from being used to commit the felony of money laundering, terrorism financing or any other illicit activity contemplated in the laws and regulations addressing this matter.

United States Law

Bladex operates a New York state-licensed agency in New York, New York and maintains a direct wholly-owned non-banking subsidiary in Delaware, Bladex Holdings Inc. ("Bladex Holdings"), that is not engaged in activities other than owning one wholly owned subsidiary incorporated under the laws of the State of Delaware: Bladex Asset Management, Inc. incorporated on May 24, 2006. In february 2007, another wholly-owned subsidiary Clavex, LLC,which was incorporated on June 15, 2006, was dissolved. On October 30, 2006, the Bank established an International Administrative Office in Miami, Florida (the "Florida International Administrative Office").

New York State Law. The New York Agency, established in 1989, is licensed by the Superintendent of Banks of the State of New York (the "Superintendent") under the New York Banking Law. The New York Agency maintains an international banking facility that also is regulated by the Superintendent and the Federal Reserve Board. The New York Agency is examined by the New York State Banking Department and is subject to banking laws and regulations applicable to a foreign bank that operates a New York agency. New York agencies of foreign banks are regulated substantially the same as, and have similar powers to, New York state-chartered banks, except with respect to capital requirements and deposit-taking activities.

The Superintendent is empowered by law to require any branch or agency of a foreign bank to maintain in New York specified assets equal to a percentage of the branch or agency's liabilities, as the Superintendent may designate. Under the current requirement, the New York Agency is required to maintain a pledge of a minimum of $2 million with respect to its total third-party liabilities and such pledge may be up to 1% of the agency's third party liabilities, or upon meeting eligibility criteria, up to a maximum amount of $100 million. At December 31, 2007, the New York Agency maintained a pledge of $5.5 million, complying with the minimum required amount.

In addition, the Superintendent retains the authority to impose specific asset maintenance requirements upon individual agencies of foreign banks on a case-by-case basis. No special requirement has been prescribed for the New York Agency.

The New York Banking Law generally limits the amount of loans to any one person to 15 percent of the capital, surplus fund and undivided profits of a bank. For foreign bank agencies, the lending limits are based on the capital of the foreign bank and not that of the agency.

The Superintendent is authorized to take possession of the business and property of a New York agency of a foreign bank whenever an event occurs that would permit the Superintendent to take possession of the business and property of a state-chartered bank. These events include the violation of any law, unsafe business practices, an impairment of capital, and the suspension of payments of obligations. In liquidating or dealing with an agency's business after taking possession of the agency, the New York Banking Law provides that the claims of creditors which arose out of transactions with the agency may be granted a priority with respect to the agency's assets over other creditors of the foreign bank.

Florida Law. The Florida International Administrative Office, established in October 2006, is licensed and supervised by the Florida Office of Financial Regulation under the Florida Financial Institutions Codes. The activities of the Florida International Administrative Office are subject to the restrictions described below as well as to Florida banking laws and regulations that are applicable generally to foreign banks that operate offices in Florida. The Florida International Administrative Office is also subject to regulation by the Federal Reserve Board under the International Banking Act of 1978 (the "IBA").

Pursuant to Florida law, the Florida International Administrative Office is authorized to conduct certain "back office" functions on behalf of the Bank, including administration of the Bank's personnel and operations, data processing and record keeping activities, and negotiating and servicing loans or extensions of credit and investments. Under the provisions of the IBA and the regulations of the Federal Reserve Board, the Florida International Administrative Office is also permitted to function as a representative office of the Bank. In this capacity it may solicit new business for the Bank and conduct research. It may also act in a liaison capacity between the Bank and its customers.

Federal Law. In addition to being subject to New York and Florida state laws and regulations, the New York Agency and the Florida International Administrative Office are subject to federal regulations, primarily under the IBA, and are subject to examination and supervision by the Federal Reserve Board. The IBA generally extends federal banking supervision and regulation to the U.S. offices of foreign banks and to the foreign bank itself. Under the IBA, the U.S. branches and agencies of foreign banks, including the New York Agency, are subject to reserve requirements on certain deposits. At present, the New York Agency has no deposits subject to such requirements. The New York Agency also is subject to reporting and examination requirements imposed by the Federal Reserve Board similar to those imposed on domestic banks that are members of the Federal Reserve System. The Foreign Bank Supervision Enhancement Act of 1991 (the "FBSEA") has amended the IBA to enhance the authority of the Federal Reserve Board to supervise the operations of foreign banks in the United States. In particular, the FBSEA has expanded the Federal Reserve Board's authority to regulate the entry of foreign banks into the United States, supervise their ongoing operations, conduct and coordinate examinations of their U.S. offices with state banking authorities, and terminate their activities in the United States for violations of law or for unsafe or unsound banking practices.

In addition, under the FBSEA, state-licensed branches and agencies of foreign banks may not engage in any activity that is not permissible for a "federal branch" (i.e., a branch of a foreign bank licensed by the federal government through the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency of the Treasury Department ("OCC"), rather than by a state), unless the Federal Reserve Board has determined that such activity is consistent with sound banking practices.

The New York Agency does not engage in retail deposit-taking in the United States, and deposits with the New York Agency are not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC"). Under the FBSEA, the New York Agency may not obtain FDIC insurance and generally may not accept deposits of less than $100,000.

The IBA also restricts the ability of a foreign bank with a branch or agency in the United States to engage in non-banking activities in the United States, to the same extent as a U.S. bank holding company. Bladex is subject to certain provisions of the Federal Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 (the "BHCA") because it maintains an agency in the United States. Generally, any nonbanking activity engaged in by Bladex directly or through a subsidiary in the United States is subject to certain limitations under the BHCA. Under the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Financial Modernization Act of 1999 (the "GLB Act"), a foreign bank with a branch or agency in the United States may engage in a broader range of non-banking financial activities, provided it is qualified and has filed a declaration with the Federal Reserve Board to be a "financial holding company" ("FHC"). As of the date hereof, Bladex has not filed such a declaration with the Federal Reserve Board. At present, Bladex has one subsidiary in the United States, Bladex Holdings that is incorporated under Delaware law. That subsidiary is not engaged in any activity, other than owning one Delaware company, which is Bladex Asset Management, Inc.

In addition, pursuant to the Financial Services Regulatory Relief Act of 2006, the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") and the Federal Reserve Board finalized Regulation R. Regulation R defines the scope of exceptions provided for in the GLB Act for securities activities which banks may conduct without registering with the SEC as securities brokers or moving such activities to a broker-dealer affiliate. The "push out" rules exceptions contained in Regulation R enable banks, subject to certain conditions, to continue to conduct securities transactions for customers as part of the bank's trust and fiduciary, custodial, and deposit "sweep" functions, and to refer customers to securities broker-dealer pursuant to a networking arrangement with the broker-dealer. The New York Agency is subject to Regulation R with respect to its securities activities.

USA PATRIOT Act of 2001. The USA PATRIOT Act of 2001 (the "PATRIOT Act") substantially broadened the scope of U.S. anti-money laundering laws and regulations by imposing significantly new compliance and due diligence obligations, creating new crimes and penalties and expanding the extraterritorial jurisdiction of the United States. Failure of a financial institution to comply with the PATRIOT Act's requirements could have serious legal and reputational consequences for an institution. Both the New York Agency and the Florida International Administrative Office are "financial institutions" within the meaning of the PATRIOT Act. The New York Agency has adopted comprehensive policies and procedures to address the requirements of the PATRIOT Act.

Cayman Islands Law

Bladex Offshore Feeder Fund and Bladex Capital Growth Fund are exempted companies incorporated in the Cayman Islands with limited liability, incorporated on February 21, 2006 under the Companies Law of the Cayman Islands. The registered office of these companies is at PO Box 309GT, Ugland House, South Church Street, George Town, Grand Cayman, KY1-1104, Cayman Islands.

The Companies Law (2007 Revision) of the Cayman Islands (the "Companies Law") is derived, to a large extent, from the older Companies Acts of England, although there are significant differences between the Companies Law and the current Companies Act of England. Section 193 of the Companies Law requires that Bladex Offshore Feeder Fund and Bladex Capital Growth Fund shall not trade in the Cayman Islands with any person, firm or corporation except in furtherance of the business of these companies carried on outside the Cayman Islands. This does not prevent Bladex Offshore Feeder Fund and Bladex Capital Growth Fund from effecting and concluding contracts in the Cayman Islands and exercising in the Cayman Islands all of its powers necessary for the carrying on of its business outside the Cayman Islands.

The Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Law (2007 Revision) and the Terrorism Law, 2003 of the Cayman Islands impose reporting obligations on residents of the Cayman Islands who know or suspect the involvement of another person in money laundering or terrorist activities.

Item 5. Operating and Financial Review and Prospects

The following discussion should be read in conjunction with the Bank’s Consolidated Financial Statements and the notes thereto included elsewhere in this Annual Report.

Nature of Earnings

The Bank derives income from net interest income, fees and commissions, trading gains, and net gains on sale of securities available-for-sale. Net interest income, or the difference between the interest income the Bank receives on its interest-earning assets and the interest it pays on interest-bearing liabilities, is generated principally by the Bank’s lending activities. The Bank generates fees and commissions mainly through the issuance, confirmation and negotiation of letters of credit and guarantees covering commercial and country risk, and through loan origination and sales.

Net Income

For 2007, net income was $72 million, compared with $58 million for 2006, a $14 million, or 25%, increase, mainly attributable to a $12 million, or 20%, increase in net interest income (mostly from the Commercial Division), $23 million in higher trading gains from the Asset Management Division, and a $7 million increase from gain on sale of securities available-for-sale from the Treasury Division. These increases were partly offset mainly by an $8 million increase in operating expenses.

The Commercial Division's net income, which includes net interest income from loans, fees and commissions and other income derived from financial services and off-balance sheet credits (such as letters of credit, guarantees and credit commitments), allocated operating expenses and reversals (provisions) for credit losses, amounted to $43 million in 2007, compared to $47 million in 2006. The $4 million decrease was mainly driven by lower reversals for credit losses which amounted to $1 million in 2007 compared to $13 million in 2006. This decrease was partly offset mainly by net interest income growth, due to higher average balances of the loan portfolio and higher weighted average lending spreads over cost of funds.

The Treasury Division's net income, which includes net interest income on investment securities, gains and losses on the sale of securities, on activities of hedging derivative instruments and on foreign currency exchange transactions, allocated operating expenses and recoveries on assets, net of impairment, amounted to $10 million in 2007, compared to $11 million in 2006. The $1 million, or 7%, decrease is mainly attributable to recoveries on assets which amounted to $0 during 2007, compared to $6 million during 2006 (related to collections of Argentine securities which had been written-off and charged to earnings in prior years). This decrease was partly offset mainly by gains in the available-for-sale portfolio.

The Asset Management Division's net income, which includes net interest income on trading securities, trading gains and allocated operating expenses, totaled $19 million for the year 2007, compared to $21 thousand in 2006. The increase is attributable principally to higher trading gains from asset management activities, which amounted to $24 million in 2007 compared to $0.9 million in 2006.

For 2006, net income was $58 million, compared to $80 million for 2005. The $22 million reduction in net income during 2006 mainly resulted from lower reversals of credit provisions and recoveries on assets, net of impairments, which, for 2006, amounted to $19 million, compared to $51 million in 2005. This reduction was partly offset mainly by higher net interest income derived from the Commercial Division's loan portfolio growth and diversification.

For further information on net income by business segment, see Item 18, "Financial Statements", note 22.

Net Interest Income and Margins

The following table sets forth information regarding net interest income, the Bank's net interest margin (the net interest income divided by the average balance of interest-earning assets), and the net interest spread (the average yield earned on interest-earning assets, less the average yield paid on interest-bearing liabilities) for the periods indicated.

	For the Year Ended December 31,
		2005		2006		2007
	(in $ million, except percentages)
Net interest income
Commercial Division
Accruing portfolio	$	33.2	$	49.0	$	64.1
Non-accruing portfolio		6.2		2.0		0.0
Commercial Division	$	39.4	$	50.9	$	64.1
Treasury Division		5.9		6.9		6.2
Asset Management Division		0.0		1.0		0.2
Consolidated	$	45.3	$	58.8	$	70.6
Net interest margin		1.70%		1.76%		1.71%
Net interest spread		0.67%		0.70%		0.80%

The $12 million, or 20%, increase in net interest income in 2007 compared to 2006 was the result of higher average balances in the loan portfolio (24%) and increased weighted average lending spreads over the cost of funds. The increase in loan portfolio average balances and lending spreads is attributable to the Bank's strategy to improve client and geographic portfolio diversification, by increasing its exposure to the corporate client segment in several countries in the Region. The 5 basis point decrease in net interest margin during 2007 compared to 2006 was mainly due to higher leveraging of the balance sheet and by non-recurring interest income on non-accrual loans received on a cash basis during 2006, both of which offset higher lending spreads during 2007.

The $14 million increase in net interest income and the 6 basis point increase in net interest margin in 2006 compared to 2005 were mainly due to an increase in the average accruing loan and investment portfolio, increasing interest rates on the Bank's available capital, wider lending spreads reflecting changes in the Bank's portfolio mix, and a lower cost of funds. These factors were partially offset by the lower interest collections on the Bank's non-accruing portfolio over 2006, compared to 2005.

Distribution of Assets, Liabilities and Stockholders' Equity; Interest Rates and Differentials

The following table presents the distribution of consolidated average assets, liabilities and stockholders' equity, as well as the total dollar amounts of interest income from average interest-earning assets and the resulting yields, the dollar amounts of interest expense and average interest-bearing liabilities, and corresponding information regarding rates. All impaired loans are on a non-accruing basis, and interest on these loans is accounted for on a cash basis. Average balances have been computed on the basis of consolidated daily average balance sheets.

Changes in Net Interest Income — Volume and Rate Analysis

Net interest income is affected by changes in volume and changes in interest rates. Volume changes are caused by differences in the level of interest-earning assets and interest-bearing liabilities. Rate changes result from differences in yields earned on interest-earning assets and rates paid on interest-bearing liabilities. The following table sets forth a summary of the changes in net interest income of the Bank resulting from changes in average interest-earning asset and interest-bearing liability balances (volume) and changes in average interest rates for 2006 compared to 2005 and for 2007 compared to 2006. Volume and rate variances have been calculated based on movements in average balances over the period and changes in interest rates on average interest-earning assets and average interest-bearing liabilities. Variances caused by changes in both volume and rates have been allocated equally to volume and rate.

As depicted in the table above, the main factor contributing to the $12 million increase in net interest income during 2007 compared to 2006 was the increase in rates, which resulted in a $7 million increase in net interest income, reflecting higher average lending spreads over the cost of funds for the Bank's loan portfolio and higher average inter-bank market rates in the Bank's assets and liabilities. The $4 million increase in net interest income derived from higher volumes during 2007 is mainly attributable to an increase in the average loan portfolio and higher average liquidity balances (interest-bearing deposits with banks), partly offset by an increase in the Bank's funding through higher average liability deposits and borrowings.

For 2006, the $13 million increase in net interest income compared to 2005 was mainly attributable to higher inter-bank market rates in the Bank's assets and liabilities, partly offset by a reduction in the average balance of the Bank's impaired portfolio.

Reversal (Provision) for Loan Losses

During 2007, as the Bank reduced its impaired portfolio to zero at December 31, 2006, there were no reversals of specific provisions for loan losses related to the impaired and restructured portfolio. These impaired portfolio reversals totaled $11 million in 2006 and $61 million in 2005.

The Bank's $12 million provision for loan losses during 2007 was mainly due to the net effect of:

- an $18 million generic provision charge, due to increased loan exposure; and
- a $6 million recovery on previously charged-off loans.

The Bank's $12 million provision for loan losses during 2006 was mainly due to the net effect of:

- a $23 million generic provision charge, due to increased loan exposure;
- a $10 million reversal related to the collection of Argentine restructured loans during the year; and
- a $1 million reversal related to the collection of a Brazilian restructured loan during the year.

The Bank's $54 million reversal of provision for loan losses during 2005 was mainly due to the net effect of:

- a $48 million reversal related to the decrease in Argentine restructured loans, reflecting loan sales, payments and prepayments during the year;
- a $13 million reversal related to the decrease in Brazilian restructured loans, reflecting payments and prepayments during the year;
- a $3 million recovery on previously charged-off loans;
- a $16 million generic provision charge, due to increased loan exposure; and
- a $6 million reversal due to the change in the credit loss reserve methodology during 2005.

For detailed information, see Item 5, "Operating and Financial Review and Prospects/Operating Results/Asset Quality and Allowance for Credit Losses".

Reversal (provision) for Losses on Off-Balance Sheet Credit Risk

The $13 million reversal of provision for losses on off-balance sheet credit risk in 2007 was mainly due to decreased letter of credit exposure in higher risk countries, as well as improved risk profiles in certain countries.

The $25 million reversal of provision for losses on off-balance sheet credit risk in 2006 was mainly due to a $15 million reduction in generic reserves driven by exposure reductions in certain countries and a $10 million reversal in specific reserves resulting from the maturity of Argentine impaired contingencies. The $16 million provision for losses on off-balance sheet credit risk in 2005 was mainly related to the effect of a change in the credit loss reserve methodology during 2005.

Fees and Commissions, net

The Bank generates fee and commission income primarily from originating letters of credit confirmation, guarantees (including commercial and country risk coverage), loan origination and distribution, and service activities. The following table shows the components of the Bank's fees and commissions, net, for the periods indicated.

	For the Year Ended December 31,
	2005	2006	2007
		(in $ thousand)
Letters of credit	$ 3,396	$ 4,121	$ 2,842
Guarantees	2,012	1,419	1,088
Loans	297	556	836
Other [1]	119	297	789
Fees and commissions, net	$ 5,824	$ 6,393	$ 5,555

[1] Net of commission expense.

The decrease of $838 thousand in net fees and commissions for 2007 compared to 2006 is attributable to lower letter of credit and guarantee activity during the first part of the year, partially offset by increased loan fees and other service activities.

The increase of $569 thousand in net fees and commissions for 2006 compared to 2005 reflects mainly a 12% increase in the average volume of letters of credit.

Activities of Hedging Derivative Instruments

During 2007 and 2006, the Bank recorded losses of $989 thousand and $225 thousand, respectively, related to hedging derivative instruments. During 2005, the Bank recorded income of $2 million mainly related to the unwinding of interest rate swaps associated with the sale of securities available-for-sale. The 2007 losses relate mainly to the fair value at their inception of interest rate swaps contracted for fair value hedge relationships that classify under the short-cut method. The difference in price at inception of these derivatives is attributable solely to differing prices within the bid-ask spread between the entry transaction and a hypothetical exit transaction. The Bank has the policy of recognizing this difference in prices in the results of operations at the inception of a hedge relationship. For additional information, see Item 11, “Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosure about Market Risk”.

Recoveries on Assets, Net of Impairments

For information, see Item 18, “Financial Statements”, notes 2(g) and 5.

Trading gains

During 2007, the Bank achieved $24 million in trading gains compared to $879 thousand in 2006.

Net Gain on Sale of Securities Available for Sale

From time to time, the Bank purchases debt instruments as part of its Treasury activity with the intention of selling them prior to maturity. These debt instruments are classified as securities available-for-sale and are included as part of the Bank’s credit portfolio.

For the year 2007, the Bank’s net gains on the sale of securities available-for-sale were $9 million. This net gain relates to the sale of securities for a nominal amount of $509 million.

During 2006, the Bank’s net gain on the sale of securities available-for-sale was $3 million, compared to $0.2 million in 2005. The 2006 gain was related to the sale of securities available-for-sale for a nominal amount of $105 million.

Operating Expenses

The following table shows a breakdown of the components of the Bank's total operating expenses for the periods indicated.

	For the Year Ended December 31,
	2005	2006	2007
		(in $ thousand)
Salaries and other employee expenses	$ 13,073	$ 16,826	$ 22,049
Depreciation and amortization	869	1,406	2,555

Other operating expenses	6,295	7,026	7,673
Total Operating Expenses	$ 24,691	$ 28,929	$ 37,027

The $8 million, or 28%, increase in operating expenses for 2007 compared to 2006 was mainly due to:

- a $5 million increase in salaries and other employee expenses mainly driven by a $3 million increase in performance-based variable compensation for the Bank's proprietary asset management team, and the remaining $2 million mainly related to higher senior management's stock compensation plan, a one-time event accrual of employee vacation, and an increase in performance-based variable compensation provision for business lines other than proprietary asset management.
- a $1 million increase in maintenance and depreciation expenses related to the Bank's new technology platform;
- a $1 million increase in professional services, mainly due to legal expenses related to the Bank's business; and
- a $1 million increase in expenses related to marketing and business travel.

The $4 million, or 17%, increase in operating expenses for 2006 compared to 2005 was mainly due to higher salary expenses associated with the development of the corporate segment and the implementation of new business initiatives, including proprietary asset management, leasing, and digital identity, as well as increased depreciation expenses related to the Bank's new technology platform.

The $812 million increase in total assets during 2007 was mainly due to a $751 million increase in the loan portfolio, resulting from the continued execution of the Bank's strategy of diversifying its portfolio concentration specifically by increasing its loans within the corporate segment. At December 31, 2007, the average maturity of the loan portfolio was 429 days, and 68% of the portfolio was scheduled to mature within one year. 60% of the portfolio was trade related and 40% constituted non-trade loans mainly extended to banks, sovereign or exporting corporations. The corporate segment (which includes state-owned exporting organizations and private corporations) represented 51% of the loan portfolio in 2007 compared to 48% in 2006 and, of this corporate segment, 66% and 74% was trade related in 2007 and 2006, respectively.

The increase in assets during 2007 was mainly financed by a $406 million increase in deposits from central and commercial banks of the Region, and by a $451 million increase in medium- and long-term borrowings and debt, including a bond issuance in Peruvian Nuevo Soles, interbank borrowings in Mexican Pesos, a five-year international loan syndication for an amount of $150 million, and a three-year borrowing for an additional $75 million, among other borrowings.

The $819 million increase in assets during 2006, compared to 2005, was mainly due to a $371 million increase in loans which reflects the Bank's strategy to diversify its client base, involving principally an increase in its activity with corporations. The corporate portfolio increased $600 million and represented 45% of the total portfolio, as compared to one third of the portfolio in 2005. In addition, during 2006, the Bank increased its investment securities portfolio -which mainly consisted of debt securities available-for-sale and held-to-maturity with banks and sovereign borrowers-, and its trading assets, as the Bank initiated operations of its Asset Management Division, which acts as investment manager for the Fund engaged in the management of a multi-strategy portfolio of Latin American fixed income investment securities, foreign exchange and equity securities and derivatives.

The increase in assets during 2006 was mainly financed by a $525 million increase in short-term borrowings primarily from North American and European banks, and by a $310 million increase in securities sold under repurchase agreements related to the investment securities portfolio.

Asset Quality

The Bank believes that its asset quality is linked to the composition of its client base, the importance that governments and borrowers in the Region attach to maintaining continued access to trade financing, its preferred creditor status, and the Bank's strict adherence to commercial criteria in its credit activities.

The Bank's management and the CPER periodically review a report of all loan delinquencies. The Bank's collection policies include rapid internal notification of any delinquency and prompt initiation of collection efforts, usually involving senior management.

Impaired Assets and Contingencies

The Bank's impaired assets consist of impaired loans and impaired securities. For more information on impaired loans, see Item 18, "Financial Statements", notes 2 (i) and 6. For more information on impaired securities, see Item 18, "Financial Statements", notes 2 (g) and 5.

Contingencies are identified as impaired and placed on non-accrual status when any payment of fees or commissions relating thereto is over 90 days past due or if the Bank's management determines that the item may become payable by the Bank and its ultimate collection of principal or commission is doubtful. For more information on contingencies, see Item 18, "Financial Statements", note 16.

The following table sets forth information regarding the Bank's impaired assets and contingencies at December 31 of each year:

[3] The total credit portfolio consists of loans net of unearned income, fair value of investment securities, securities purchased under agreements to resell and contingencies.

As of December 31, 2006 and 2007 the Bank did not have any impaired credits on its portfolio nor any credits with specific reserves.

Allowance for Credit Losses

The allowance for credit losses (which includes the allowance for loan losses and the reserve for losses on off-balance sheet credit risk) covers the credit risk on loans and contingencies. The allowance for credit losses includes an asset-specific component and a formula-based component in line with Statement of Financial Accounting Standard ("SFAS") No. 5 "Accounting for Contingencies" ("SFAS No. 5"). The asset-specific component relates to a provision for losses on credits considered impaired and measured on a case-by-case basis pursuant to SFAS No. 114 "Accounting by Creditors for Impairment of a Loan". For additional information regarding allowance for credit losses, see Item 18, "Financial Statements", notes 2 (j) and 7.

During 2005, Bladex implemented a new methodology for estimating generic allowances for credit losses. The new methodology is driven primarily by Bladex's own historical default and loss experience, as well as an internal country risk classification, rather than relying exclusively on third-party data, as was formerly the case. This change in methodology was the result of the Bank's decision to adopt best practices in the banking industry, and is in line with SFAS No.5, which calls for the use of internal historical performance data in estimating credit loss reserves. The Bank began compiling its eight-year historical database in 2004 and completed this effort during 2005.

The reserve balances for estimating generic allowances, for both on and off-balance sheet credit exposures are calculated applying the following formula:

a) Exposure (E) = the total accounting balance (on and off-balance sheet) at the end of the period under review, segregated by country.

b) Probabilities of Default (PD) = one-year probability of default applied to the portfolio in each country. Default rates are based on Bladex's historical portfolio performance per rating category during a ten-year period, complemented by probabilities of default data from international credit rating agencies for high risk cases, in view of the greater robustness of credit rating agencies data for such cases.

c) Loss Given Default (LGD) = a factor of 45% is utilized, based on best practices in the banking industry. This factor applies to all countries, except those classified as higher risk, in which case management applies historical loss experience on a case-by-case basis.

The effect of this new methodology for 2005 was a decrease in net income by $10 million, or $0.26 per share (resulting from a loan loss reserve provision reversal of $6 million, and an off-balance sheet reserve provision charge of $16 million). In addition, the adjustment to apply retroactively the new methodology (to December 31, 2004) increased net income for 2005 by $3 million (resulting from a loan loss reserve provision reversal of $6 million and an off-balance sheet reserve provision charge of $3 million). See Item 18, "Financial Statements", notes 2 (j) and 7.

The following table sets forth information regarding the Bank's allowance for credit losses with respect to total credits outstanding at December 31 of each year:

Reversals of Argentine Specific Provision for Credit Losses

At the end of 2001 and during 2002, the Bank classified as impaired most of its $1 billion Argentine credit exposure at the time, due to the country's economic and financial crisis of 2001, which caused the Bank's Argentine obligors to face payment difficulties. Accordingly, the Bank increased its allowance for credit losses during 2001 and 2002 by $77 million and $279 million, respectively, bringing the total credit reserves assigned to its Argentine portfolio to $380 million at December 31, 2002. From 2002 to 2005, the Bank negotiated the restructuring of its Argentine portfolio and sold at a discount most of the positions that the Bank estimated had the lowest probability of collection. At the close of 2005, the Bank had restructured, sold or charged-off all of its non-performing exposures.

As a result, the Bank was able to decrease its impaired Argentine loan portfolio to $23 million at December 31, 2005 and to zero at December 31, 2006, resulting in reversals of loan loss provisions related to the portfolio for $48 million and $10 million for 2005 and 2006, respectively. These reversals resulted from loan collections and sales that exceeded their respective net book values.

The following table sets forth information regarding the Bank’s reversals (provisions) of allowance for loan losses during the years indicated:

Critical Accounting Policies

General

The Bank prepares its Consolidated Financial Statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP. As such, the Bank is required to use methods, make estimates, judgments and assumptions in applying its accounting policies that have a significant impact on the results it reports in its Consolidated Financial Statements. Some of the Bank's accounting policies require management to make subjective judgments, often as a result of the need to make estimates of matters that are inherently uncertain. The Bank's management bases its estimates on historical experience and on various other assumptions that it believes to be reasonable under the circumstances. Actual results may differ from the estimates.

The Bank's most critical accounting estimates include the assessment of allowance for credit losses, impairments on the value of securities that are "other than temporary" and the fair value of financial instruments. For information regarding the Bank's significant accounting policies, see Item 18, "Financial Statements", note 2.

Allowance for Credit Losses

The classification of the Bank's credit portfolio for allowances for credit losses under U.S. GAAP is determined through statistical modeling and estimates. Informed judgments must be made when identifying deteriorated loans, the probability of default, the expected loss, the value of collateral and current economic conditions. Even though the Bank's management considers its allowances for credit losses to be adequate, the use of different estimates and assumptions could produce different allowances for credit losses, and amendments to the allowances may be required in the future due to changes in the value of collateral, the amount of cash to be received or other economic events. See Item 18, "Financial Statements", note 2(j).

The estimates of the Bank's portfolio's inherent risks and overall recovery vary with changes in the economy, individual industries, and countries and individual borrowers' or counterparties' ability and willingness to repay their obligations. The degree to which any particular assumption affects the allowance for credit losses depends on the severity of the change and its relationship to the other assumptions. The methods and assumptions used by management in estimating the fair values of each type of financial instruments are described in Item 18, "FInancial Statements”, note 20.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments

In calculating the fair value of the Bank’s financial instruments, the Bank’s management uses market data available and its best judgment. However, there are limitations in any estimation technique. The estimated fair value amounts have been measured as of their respective year-ends. Fair value calculations are only provided for a limited portion of the Bank’s assets and liabilities. See Item 18, “Financial Statements”, note 20.

Notwithstanding the level of subjectivity inherent in determining fair value, the Bank's management believes that its estimates of fair value are adequate. The use of different models or assumptions could lead to changes in the Bank's reported results.

B. Liquidity and Capital Resources

Liquidity

Liquidity refers to the Bank's ability to maintain adequate cash flows to fund operations and meet obligations and other commitments on a timely basis. The Bank maintains its liquid assets mainly in demand deposits, overnight funds and time deposits with well-known international banks, as well as highly rated marketable securities. These liquid assets are adequate to cover 24-hour deposits from customers, which theoretically could be withdrawn on the same day. At December 31, 2007, the Bank's 24-hour deposits from customers (overnight deposits, demand deposit accounts and call deposits) amounted to $111 million, representing 8% of the Bank's total deposits. The liquidity requirement resulting from these maturities is met by the Bank's liquid assets, which at December 31, 2007, were $418 million (representing 29% of total deposits), and by daily maturities of approximately $172 million to $205 million.

As established by the Bank's liquidity policy, the Bank's liquid assets are held in the form of inter-bank deposits with reputable international banks that have A1, P1, or F1 ratings from two of the major rating agencies, and are located outside of the Region. These banks must have a correspondent relationship with the Bank and be approved by the Board on an annual basis. In addition, the Bank's liquidity policy allows for investing in negotiable money market instruments, including Euro certificates of deposit, commercial paper, bankers' acceptances and other liquid instruments with maturities of up to three years. These instruments must be of investment grade quality A or better and must have a liquid secondary market.

The Bank performs daily review and controls on its liquidity position, including the application of a series of limits to restrict its overall liquidity risk. Specific limits have been established to control cumulative maturity "gaps" between assets and liabilities, for each maturity classification presented in the Bank's internal liquidity reports, as well as to control concentrations of deposits taken from any client or economic group maturing in one day and total maximum deposits maturing in one day. The Bank has also established a minimum amount of liquidity to be maintained at the end of each day, as a percentage of total assets. As a precautionary measure, since the onset of the global liquidity crisis in August 2007, Bladex has consistently maintained a cash position substantially in excess of the minimum required.

In 2007, Bladex updated its Contingent Liquidity Plan, which provides for regular stress-testing of its liquidity position. The plan contemplates the regular monitoring of several quantified internal and external reference points (such as deposit level, quality of assets, Emerging Markets Bonds Index Plus ("EMBI+"), cost of funds and market interest rates), which, in moments of high volatility, would trigger implementation of a series of precautionary measures to reinforce the Bank's liquidity position.

The following table shows the Bank's liquid assets, which consist of short-term funds deposited with other banks broken down by principal geographic area, at December 31 of each year:

	At December 31,
	2005	2006	2007
	(in $ million)
Europe	$ 189	$ 224	$ 298
United States	1	49	39
Other O.E.C.D.	35	54	81

Total	$ 225	$ 327	$ 418

While the Bank’s liabilities generally mature over somewhat shorter periods than its assets, the associated liquidity risk is diminished by the short-term nature of the loan portfolio, as the Bank is engaged primarily in the financing of foreign trade. At December 31, 2007, the average original term to maturity of the Bank’s short-term loan portfolio was approximately 217 days.

Medium term assets (maturing beyond one year) totaled $1.6 billion as of December 31, 2007. Of that amount, $448 million was comprised of liquid bonds held primarily in the Bank's securities available-for-sale portfolio. The remaining $1.2 billion in medium-term assets represented commercial loans. These medium-term loans are funded by medium-term borrowings (49%) and the Bank's equity (51%).

Funding Sources

The Bank's principal sources of funds are deposits, borrowed funds and floating- and fixed-rate placements. While these sources are expected to continue to provide the majority of the funds needed by the Bank in the future, the exact composition of the Bank´s funding sources, as well as the possible use of other sources of funds, will depend upon future economic and market conditions. The following table shows the Bank's funding distribution at December 31 of each year:

	At December 31,
	2005	2006	2007
		(in percentages)
Inter-bank deposits	41.2%	31.1%	35.0%

Other liabilities.	7.9%	5.4%	4.8%
Total liabilities	100.0%	100.0%	100.0%

Deposits

The Bank obtains deposits principally from central and commercial banks in the Region. At December 31, 2007, approximately 31% of the deposits held by the Bank were deposits made by central banks of countries in the Region. Many of these banks deposit a portion of their dollar reserves with the Bank. The average term remaining to maturity of deposits from central banks of countries in the Region at December 31, 2007 and 2006 was 36 days and 44 days, respectively. The bulk of the Bank's other deposits is obtained primarily from commercial banks located in the Region. At December 31, 2007, deposits from the Bank´s five largest depositors, of which three were central banks in the Region, represented 43% of the Bank's total deposits.

Short-Term Borrowings and Securities Sold Under Repurchase Agreements

The Bank's short-term borrowings consist of borrowings from banks that have maturities of up to 365 days. These borrowings are made available to the Bank on an uncommitted basis for the financing of trade-related loans. Approximately 35 European and North American banks provide these short-term borrowings to the Bank.

As of December 31, 2007, short-term borrowings amounted to $1,222 million, an increase of $64 million from the amount as of December 31, 2006. The increase in short-term borrowings was due to funding, liquidity and asset/liability management needs.

The average term remaining to maturity of short-term borrowings at December 31, 2007 was approximately 104 days. See Item 18, "Financial Statements", note 10.

The Bank also enters into repurchase agreements ("repos") with international banks, utilizing its investment securities portfolio as collateral to secure cost-effective funding. As of December 31, 2007, repos amounted to $283 million, a decrease of $155 million from the amount as of December 31, 2006, reflecting an increase of borrowings as a funding strategy.

The following table presents information regarding the amounts outstanding, and interest rates on, the Bank's short-term borrowings and securities sold under repurchase agreements at the dates and during the periods indicated.

Borrowings and Long-Term Debt

The interest rates on long-term borrowings are adjusted semi-annually based on short-term LIBOR rates plus a credit spread (which is based on several factors, including credit ratings, risk perception, and the remaining term to maturity). The Bank uses these funds to finance its medium-term and long-term loan portfolio. At December 31, 2007 the average term remaining to maturity of the Bank's medium and long-term debt was two years.

The Bank's EMTN Program has a maximum aggregate limit of $2.3 billion. Notes issued under the EMTN Program are placed in the Euro (Regulation S), or 144A markets and are general obligations of the Bank. The EMTN Program may be used to issue notes with maturities ranging from 90 days up to a maximum of 30 years, at fixed or floating interest rates and in various currencies. As of December 31, 2007, the total amount outstanding under the EMTN Program with medium-term maturities was $25 million.

During the third quarter of 2007, the Bank established a program for bond issuances in Peru. The program has a maximum aggregate limit of the equivalent of $300 million. Bonds issued under the program are denominated in Peruvian Nuevo Soles (PEN), may be issued in several series with different maturities and interest rate structures, will be offered exclusively to institutional investors domiciled in the Republic of Peru, and will rank pari-passu with other debt obligations of the Bank. The funds raised from the program will be used to finance the Bank's credit portfolio and to cover its general long-term financial needs. The first placement of bonds under the program consisted of bonds with a maturity of seven years and a fixed rate of interest, and was subsequently swapped into U.S. dollars through a cross-currency swap. As of December 31, 2007, the total amount outstanding under the program was PEN 123,000,000 (equivalent to $41.0 million).

As part of its interest rate and currency risk management, the Bank may from time to time, enter into foreign exchange forwards, cross-currency contracts and interest rate swaps to hedge the risk associated with a portion of the notes issued under its various programs. See Item 18, "Financial Statements", note 11, and Item 11, "Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosure About Market Risk".

Asset/Liability Management

The Bank seeks to manage its assets and liabilities to reduce the potential adverse impact on net interest income that could result from interest rate changes. The Bank controls interest rate risk through systematic monitoring of maturity mismatches. The Bank's investment decision-making takes into account not only the rates of return and the respective underlying degrees of risk, but also liquidity requirements, including minimum cash reserves, withdrawal and maturity of deposits and additional demand for funds. For any given period, a matched pricing structure exists when an equal amount of assets and liabilities are repriced. An excess of assets or liabilities over these matched items results in a "gap" or "mismatch", as shown in the table under "Interest Rate Sensitivity" below. A negative gap denotes liability sensitivity and normally means that a decline in interest rates would have a positive effect on net interest income, while an increase in interest rates would have a negative effect on net interest income. Substantially all of the Bank's assets and liabilities are denominated in dollars and, therefore, the Bank has no material foreign exchange risk.

Interest Rate Sensitivity

The following table presents the projected maturities and interest rate adjustment periods of the Bank's assets, liabilities and stockholders' equity based upon the contractual maturities and adjustment dates at December 31, 2007. The Bank's interest-earning assets and interest-bearing liabilities and the related interest rate sensitivity gap shown in the following table may not reflect positions in subsequent periods.

The Bank's interest rate risk is the exposure of earnings (current and potential) and capital to adverse changes in interest rates and is managed by attempting to match the term and repricing characteristics of the Bank's interest rate sensitive assets and liabilities. The Bank's interest rate risk arises from the Bank's liability sensitive short-term position, which means that the Bank's interest-bearing liabilities reprice more quickly than the Bank's interest-earning assets. As a result, there is a potential adverse impact on the Bank's net interest income from interest rate increases. The Bank's policy with respect to interest rate risk provides that the Bank establishes limits with regards to: (i) changes in net interest income due to a potential impact given certain movements in interest rates, (ii) changes in the amount of available equity funds of the Bank (given a one basis point movement in interest rates) and (iii) changes in value-at-risk ("VaR") of the Bank's portfolio (based on statistical analysis of the historical volatility of the Bank's portfolio). The Bank also has used interest rate swaps as part of its interest rate risk management. Interest rate swaps are made either in a single currency or cross-currency for a prescribed period to exchange a series of interest rate flows, which involve fixed- for floating-rate interest payments or vice versa.

Stockholders' Equity

The following table presents information concerning the Bank's capital position at the dates indicated.

The $28 million increase in stockholders' equity during 2007 was mainly due to the following factors:

- Increased retained earnings due to the Bank's net income of $72 million, partially offset by a total of $32 million in dividends paid to common stockholders; offset by
- Decreased accumulated other comprehensive income related to derivative hedging instruments, due to the lowering of interest rates by the Federal Reserve Board during the credit crisis. This loss was not offset by the investment securities portfolio, which is covered by interest rate swaps, due to an increase in credit spreads as a result of the liquidity shortage in the market.

The net decrease in stockholders' equity during 2006 was mainly due to the following factors:

- Dividends paid to common stockholders of $66 million ($27 million paid in quarterly dividends and $38 million paid in special dividends); and
- The repurchase of $29 million Class E shares pursuant to the Bank's stock repurchase program.
- These factors were offset by net income of $58 million and higher accumulated other comprehensive income related to the available-for-sale portfolio.

The Bank completed its $50 million stock repurchase program at December 31, 2006, which was commenced in August 2004. See Item 10, "Additional Information/Dividends" and Item 16E, "Purchases of Equity Securities by the Issuer and Affiliated Purchasers".

Capital reserves are established by the Bank from retained earnings and are a form of retained earnings required by Panamanian banking regulations. Capital reserves are intended to strengthen the Bank's capital position. Reductions of these reserves, for example to pay dividends, require approval of the Board of the Bank and Panamanian banking authorities. Panamanian banking regulations do not require the Bank to maintain any particular level of capital reserves.

At December 31, 2007, the capital ratio of total stockholders' equity to total assets was 12.8%. Although the Bank is not subject to the capital adequacy requirements of the United States Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (the "Federal Reserve Board"), if the Federal Reserve Board's fully phased-in risk-based capital guidelines applied to the Bank, the Bank's ratios would have exceeded all applicable capital adequacy requirements. At December 31, 2007, the Bank's Tier 1 and total capital ratios calculated according to these guidelines were 21% and 22%, respectively. The Banking Law (as defined under Item 4, "Information on the Company/Business Overview/Regulation") in Panama, which became effective on June 12, 1998, requires the Bank to maintain a minimum total capital to risk-weighted asset ratio of 8% (each, as defined in the Banking Law). At December 31, 2007, the Bank's total capital to risk-weighted asset ratio, calculated according to the guidelines of the Banking Law, was 14.12%. See Item 4, "Information on the Company/Business Overview/Regulation/Panamanian Law".

D. Trend Information

The following are the most important trends, uncertainties and events that are reasonably likely to materially affect the Bank or that would cause the financial information disclosed herein not to be indicative of the Bank's future operating results or financial condition:

- The effect of changes in global economic conditions, including oil and other commodities prices, the U.S. dollar exchange rate, interest rates, and slower economic growth in developed countries and trading partners, and the effect that these changes may have on the economic condition of countries in the Region, including the Region´s foreign trade growth, and hence on the Bank's capacity to grow its trade financing business.

- The effect that an economic slowdown or political events in large Latin American countries may have on the Bank's asset quality, results of operations and growth prospects.
- Continued improvement in risk perception in the Bank's markets, increased competition and U.S. dollar liquidity which could affect spreads over the cost of funds on the Bank's loan portfolio, and in turn, reduce the Bank's net interest spreads.

- A downturn in the capital markets or a downturn in investor confidence which could affect the Bank's access to funding or increase its costs of funding.

In addition, see Item 3, "Key Information/Risk Factors" for a discussion of the risks the Bank faces, which could affect the Bank's business, results of operations or financial condition.

E. Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements

In the ordinary course of business, in order to meet the financing needs of its customers, the Bank enters into arrangements that are not recognized on its balance sheet. At December 31, 2007, the Bank's off-balance sheet arrangements included stand-by letters of credit, guarantees (commercial risk and country risk), credit default swaps and credit commitments (including unused commitments and other commitments). See Item 18, "Financial Statements", note 16. These arrangements are kept off-balance sheet as long as the Bank does not incur an obligation from them or itself become entitled to an asset. A reserve for losses on off-balance sheet credit risk is recognized on the balance sheet, with the resulting loss recorded in the income statement.

For 2007, fees and commission income from off-balance sheet arrangements amounted to $6 million. For additional information, see Item 5, "Operating and Financial Review and Prospects/Operating Results/Fees and Commissions, net". In 2007, the Bank was committed to invest $1.5 million, ($1.9 million in 2006) in a private investment fund whose main objective is to generate capital appreciation in the long-term through the purchase of equity securities and convertible debt mainly from Mexican manufacturing corporations or foreign corporations looking to establish or expand their operations in Mexico.

No obligations have arisen from variable interest entities as defined in Financial Interpretation ("FIN") 46R "Consolidation of Variable Interest Entities - Revised" ("FIN 46R"), including indemnification agreements with its executive officers and directors, and provides indemnity insurance pursuant to which directors and officers are indemnified or insured against liability or loss under certain circumstances, including liabilities or related losses arising under the Securities Act and the Exchange Act.

Purchase Agreements

The Bank has signed service agreements with certain vendors that provide services that are necessary for the ongoing operations of its business and are mainly related to the maintenance of a new technology platform and telecommunications services. The terms of these agreements are up to eight years and some of them can be re-negotiated for annual or semi-annual price adjustments after the fifth year. This summary is based upon the Code, existing, temporary and proposed regulations promulgated there under, judicial decisions and administrative pronouncements, as all in effect on the date of this Annual Report and which are subject to change (possibly on a retroactive basis) and to differing interpretations. Purchasers or holders of Class E shares should consult their own tax advisors as to the U.S. federal, state and local, and foreign tax consequences of the ownership and disposition of Class E shares in their particular circumstances.

As used herein, a "U.S. Holder" refers to a beneficial holder of Class E shares that is, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, (1) an individual citizen or resident of the United States, (2) a corporation, or an entity treated as a corporation, organized or created in or under the laws of the U.S. or any political subdivision thereof, (3) an estate the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income taxation without regard to the source of its income, (4) a trust, if both (A) a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the trust and (B) one or more U.S. persons (as defined in the Code) have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust, or a trust that has made a valid election under U.S. Treasury Regulations to be treated as a domestic trust, and (5) any holder otherwise subject to U.S. federal income taxation on a net income basis with respect to Class E shares (including a non-resident alien individual or foreign corporation that holds, or is deemed to hold, any Class E share in connection with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business). If a partnership (including for this purpose any entity treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes) is a beneficial owner of Class E shares, the U.S. federal income tax consequences to a partner in the partnership will generally depend on the status of the partner and the activities of the partnership. A holder of Class E shares that is a partnership and the partners in such partnership should consult their own tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the ownership and disposition of Class E shares.

Taxation of Distributions

Subject to the "Passive Foreign Investment Company Status" discussion below, to the extent paid out of current or accumulated earnings and profits of the Bank as determined under U.S. federal income tax principles ("earnings and profits"), distributions made with respect to Class E shares (other than certain pro rata distributions of capital stock of the Bank or rights to subscribe for shares of capital stock of the Bank) will be includable in income of a U.S. Holder as ordinary dividend income in accordance with the U.S. Holder's regular method of accounting for U.S. federal income tax purposes whether paid in cash or Class E shares. To the extent that a distribution exceeds the Bank's earnings and profits, such distribution will be treated, first, as a nontaxable return of capital to the extent of the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Class E shares and will reduce the U.S. Holder's tax basis in such shares, and thereafter as a capital gain from the sale or disposition of Class E shares. See Item 10, "Additional Information/Taxation/United States Taxes-Taxation of Capital Gains". The amount of the distribution will equal the gross amount of the distribution received by the U.S. Holder, including any Panamanian taxes withheld from such distribution.

Distributions made with respect to Class E shares out of earnings and profits generally will be treated as dividend income from sources outside the United States. U.S. Holders that are corporations will not be entitled to the "dividends received deduction" under Section 243 of the Code with respect to such dividends. Dividends may be eligible for the special 15% rate applicable to "qualified dividend income" received by an individual, provided, that (1) the Bank is not a "passive foreign investment company" in the year in which the dividend is paid nor in the immediately preceding year, (2) the class of stock with respect to which the dividend is paid is readily tradable on an established securities market in the U.S., and (3) the U.S. Holder held his shares for more than 60 days during the 121-day period beginning 60 days prior to the ex-dividend date and meets other holding period requirements. Subject to certain conditions and limitations, Panamanian tax withheld from dividends will be treated as a foreign income tax eligible for deduction from taxable income or as a credit against a U.S. Holder's U.S. federal income tax liability. Distributions of dividend income made with respect to Class E shares generally will be treated as "passive" income or, in the case of certain U.S. Holders, "general category income," for purposes of computing a U.S. Holder's U.S. foreign tax credit.

Less than 25 percent of the Bank's gross income is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States, and the Bank expects this to remain true. If this remains the case, a holder of Class E shares that is not a U.S. Holder (a "non-U.S. Holder") generally will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax or withholding tax on distributions received on Class E shares that are treated as dividend income for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Special rules may apply in the case of non-U.S. Holders (1) that are engaged in a U.S. trade or business, (2) that are former citizens or long-term residents of the United States, "controlled foreign corporations," corporations that accumulate earnings to avoid U.S. federal income tax, and certain foreign charitable organizations, each within the meaning of the Code, or (3) certain non-resident alien individuals who are present in the United States for 183 days or more during a taxable year. Such persons should consult their own tax advisors as to the U.S. federal income or other tax consequences of the ownership and disposition of Class E shares.

Taxation of Capital Gains

Subject to the "Passive Foreign Investment Company Status" discussion below, gain or loss realized by a U.S. Holder on the sale or other disposition of Class E shares will generally be subject to U.S. federal income tax as capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Class E shares and the amount realized on the disposition. Such gain will be treated as long-term capital gain if the Class E shares are held by the U.S. Holder for more than one year at the time of the sale or other disposition. Otherwise, the gain will be treated as a short-term capital gain. Gain realized by a U.S. Holder on the sale or other disposition of Class E shares generally will be treated as U.S. source income for U.S. foreign tax credit purposes, unless the gain is attributable to an office or fixed place of business maintained by the U.S. Holder outside the United States or is recognized by an individual whose tax home is outside the United States, and certain other conditions are met. For U.S. federal income tax purposes, capital losses are subject to limitations on deductibility. As a general rule, U.S. Holders that are corporations can use capital losses for a taxable year only to offset capital gains in that year. A corporation may be entitled to carry back unused capital losses to the three preceding tax years and to carry over losses to the five following tax years. In the case of non-corporate U.S. Holders, capital losses in a taxable year are deductible to the extent of any capital gains plus ordinary income of up to $3,000. Unused capital losses of non-corporate U.S. Holders may be carried over indefinitely.

A non-U.S. Holder of Class E shares will generally not be subject to U.S. federal income tax or withholding tax on gain realized on the sale or other disposition of Class E shares. However, special rules may apply in the case of non-U.S. Holders (1) that are engaged in a U.S. trade or business, (2) that are former citizens or long-term residents of the United States, "controlled foreign corporations," corporations which accumulate earnings to avoid U.S. federal income tax, and certain foreign charitable organizations, each within the meaning of the Code, or (3) certain non-resident alien individuals who are present in the United States for 183 days or more during a taxable year. Such persons should consult their own tax advisors as to the United States or other tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and disposition of the Class E shares.

Passive Foreign Investment Company Status

Under the Code, certain rules apply to an entity classified as a "passive foreign investment company" ("PFIC"). A PFIC is defined as any foreign (i.e., non-U.S.) corporation if either (1) 75% or more of its gross income for the taxable year is passive income (generally including, among other types of income, dividends, interest and gains from the sale of stock and securities) or (2) 50% or more of its assets (by value) produce, or are held for the production of, passive income. The Code provides an exception for foreign institutions in the active conduct of a banking business, provided the institution is licensed to do business in the United States. Under proposed regulations, the exception is extended to a foreign corporation that is not licensed to do business as a bank in the United States so long as such foreign corporation is an "active foreign bank." Based on its current and intended method of operations as described herein, the Bank believes that it is not a PFIC under current U.S. federal income tax law because it is eligible for the exception available to active foreign banks in the Code and the proposed regulations. The Bank intends to continue to operate in a manner that will entitle the Bank to rely upon that exception to avoid classification as a PFIC.

If the Bank were to become a PFIC for purposes of the Code, unless a U.S. Holder makes the election described below, a U.S. Holder generally will be subject to a special tax charge with respect to (a) any gain realized on the sale or other disposition of Class E shares and (b) any "excess distribution" by the Bank to the U.S. Holder (generally, any distributions including return of capital distributions, received by the U.S. Holder on the Class E shares in a taxable year that are greater than 125 percent of the average annual distributions received by the U.S. Holder in the three preceding taxable years, or, if shorter, the U.S. Holder's holding period). Under these rules (1) the gain or excess distribution would be allocated ratably over the U.S. Holder's holding period for the Class E shares, (2) the amount allocated to the current taxable year would be treated as ordinary income, (3) the amount allocated to each prior year would be subject to tax at the highest rate in effect for that year; and (4) an interest charge at the rate generally applicable to underpayments of tax would be imposed with respect to the resulting tax attributable to each such prior year. For purposes of the foregoing rules, a U.S. Holder of Class E shares that uses such stock as security for a loan will be treated as having disposed of such stock.

If the Bank were a PFIC, U.S. Holders of interests in a holder of Class E shares may be treated as indirect holders of their proportionate share of the Class E shares and may be taxed on their proportionate share of any excess distributions or gain attributable to the Class E shares. An indirect holder also must treat an appropriate portion of its gain on the sale or disposition of its interest in the actual holder as gain on the sale of Class E shares.

If the Bank were to become a PFIC, a U.S. Holder could make an election, provided the Bank complies with certain reporting requirements, to have the Bank treated, with respect to such U.S. Holder, as a "qualified electing fund" (hereinafter referred to as a "QEF election"), in which case, the electing U.S. Holder would be required to include annually in gross income the U.S. Holder's proportionate share of the Bank's ordinary earnings and net capital gains, whether or not such amounts are actually distributed. If the Bank were to become a PFIC, the Bank intends to so notify each U.S. Holder and to comply with all reporting requirements necessary for a U.S. Holder to make a QEF election and will provide to record U.S. Holders of Class E shares such information as may be required to make such QEF election.

If the Bank is a PFIC in any year, a U.S. Holder that beneficially owns Class E shares during such year must make an annual return on Internal Revenue Service Form 8621, which describes the income received (or deemed to be received if a QEF election is in effect) from the Bank. The Bank will, if applicable, provide all information necessary for a U.S. Holder of record to make an annual return on Form 8621.

A U.S. Holder that owns certain "marketable stock" in a PFIC may elect to mark-to-market such stock and, subject to certain exceptions, include in income any gain (increases in market value) or loss (decreases in market value to the extent of prior gains recognized) realized as ordinary income or loss to avoid the adverse consequences described above. U.S. Holders of Class E shares are urged to consult their own tax advisors as to the consequences of owning stock in a PFIC and whether such U.S. Holder would be eligible to make either of the aforementioned elections to mitigate the adverse effects of such consequences.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding

Each U.S. payor making payments in respect of Class E shares will generally be required to provide the Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") with certain information, including the name, address and taxpayer identification number of the beneficial owner of Class E shares, and the aggregate amount of dividends paid to such beneficial owner during the calendar year. Under the backup withholding rules, a holder may be subject to backup withholding at a current rate of 28% with respect to proceeds received on the sale or exchange of Class E shares within the United States by non-corporate U.S. Holders and to dividends paid, unless such holder (1) is a corporation or comes within certain other exempt categories (including securities broker-dealers, other financial institutions, tax-exempt organizations, qualified pension and profit sharing trusts and individual retirement accounts), and, when required, demonstrates this fact or (2) provides a taxpayer identification number, certifies as to no loss of exemption and otherwise complies with the applicable requirements of the backup withholding rules. Non-U.S. Holders are generally exempt from information reporting and backup withholding, but may be required to provide a properly completed Form W-8BEN (or other similar form) or otherwise comply with applicable certification and identification procedures in order to prove their exemption. This backup withholding tax is not an additional tax and any amounts withheld from a payment to a holder of Class E shares will be refunded (or credited against such holder's U.S. federal income tax liability, if any) provided that the required information is furnished to the IRS.

There is no income tax treaty between Panama and the United States.

Panamanian Taxes

The following is a summary of the principal Panamanian tax consequences arising in connection with the ownership and disposition of the Bank's Class E shares. This summary is based upon the laws and regulations of Panama, as well as court precedents and interpretative rulings, in effect as of the date of this Annual Report, all of which are subject to prospective and retroactive change.

General Principle

The Bank is exempt from income tax in Panama under a special exemption granted to the Bank pursuant to Law 38 of July 25, 1978. In addition, under general rules of income tax in Panama, only income that is deemed to be Panama source income is subject to taxation in Panama. Accordingly, since the Bank's income is derived primarily from sources outside of Panama and is not deemed to be Panama source income, even in the absence of such a special exemption, the Bank would have limited income tax liability in Panama.

Taxation of Distributions

Dividends whether cash or in kind, paid by the Bank in respect of its shares are also exempt from dividend tax or other withholding under the aforementioned special legislation. If such special legislation did not exist, Panama would impose a 10% withholding tax on dividends or distributions paid in respect of the Bank's registered shares to the extent such dividends are paid from income derived by the Bank from Panamanian sources.

Taxation of Capital Gains

Inasmuch as the Bank's Class E shares are listed on the NYSE, any capital gains realized by an individual or a corporation, regardless of its nationality or residency, on the sale or other disposition outside of Panama, would be exempted from capital gains taxes or any other taxes in Panama.

Item 11. Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosure About Market Risk

The Bank's risk management policies, as approved by the Board from time to time, are designed to identify and control the Bank's credit and market risks by establishing and monitoring appropriate limits on the Bank's credit and market exposures. Certain members of the Board constitute the Assets and Liabilities Committee, which meets on a regular basis and monitors and controls the risks in each specific area. At the management level, the Bank has a Risk Management Department that measures and controls the credit and market exposure of the Bank.

The Bank's businesses are subject to market risk. The components of market risk are interest rate risk inherent in the Bank's balance sheet, price risk in the Bank's principal investment portfolio and market value risk in the Bank's trading portfolios. For quantitative information relating to the Bank's interest rate risk and information relating to the Bank's management of interest rate risk, see Item 5, "Operating and Financial Review and Prospects/Liquidity and Capital Resources" and Item 18, "Financial Statements", notes 2 (q) and 18.

For information regarding derivative financial instruments see Item 18, “Financial Statements”, notes 2 (q) and 18. For information regarding investment securities, see Item 4, “Information on the Company/Business Overview/Investment Securities”, and Item 18, “Financial Statements”, note 5.

The table below lists for each of the years 2008 to 2012 the notional amounts and weighted interest rates, as of December 31, 2007, for derivative financial instruments and other financial instruments that are sensitive to changes in interest rates: the Bank’s investment securities, loans, borrowings and placements, interest rate swaps, cross currency swaps, forward currency exchange agreements, and trading assets and liabilities.

(1) Borrowings and placements include securities sold under repurchase agreements, and short and long-term borrowings and debt.

Although certain assets and liabilities may have similar maturities or periods of re-pricing, they may be impacted in varying degrees to changes in market interest rates. The maturity of certain types of assets and liabilities may fluctuate in advance of changes in market rates, while the maturity of other types of assets and liabilities may lag behind changes in market rates. In the event of a change in interest rates, prepayment and early withdrawal levels could deviate significantly from the maturities assumed in calculating the table above.

For information regarding the fair value disclosure of financial instruments, see Item 18, “Financial Statements”, note 20.

Foreign Exchange Risk Management and Sensitivity

The Bank accepts deposits and raises funds principally in U.S. dollars, and makes loans mostly in U.S. dollars. Currency exchange risk arises when the Bank accepts deposits or raises funds in one currency and lends or invests the proceeds in another. Whenever possible, foreign currency-denominated assets are funded with liability instruments denominated in the same currency. In those cases where assets were funded in different currencies, forward foreign exchange or cross-currency swap contracts were used to fully hedge the risk resulting from this cross currency funding. During 2007, the Bank did not hold significant open foreign exchange positions, except for trading purposes. The Fund invests in securities denominated in foreign currency as well as in forward foreign currency exchange contracts, for trading purposes. At December 31, 2007, the Bank had an equivalent of $288 million of non-dollar financial liabilities, which matched funded asset transactions in the same currency.

Item 13. Defaults, Dividend Arrearages and Delinquencies

None.

Item 14. Material Modifications to the Rights of Security Holders and Use of Proceeds

Item 15. Controls and Procedures

a) Disclosure Controls and Procedures

The Bank maintains disclosure controls and procedures that are designed to ensure that information required to be disclosed in the reports it files under the Exchange Act is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in the Commission’s rules and forms. Such controls include those designed to ensure that information for disclosure is accumulated and communicated to the members of the Board and management, including the Chief Executive Officer (the “CEO”), as appropriate to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosure.

The CEO and the Chief Financial Officer (the "CFO"), with the participation of management, evaluated the effectiveness of the Bank’s disclosure controls and procedures as of December 31, 2007. Based on such evaluation, the CEO and the CFO have concluded that, as of the end of such period, the Bank's disclosure controls and procedures are effective.

b) Management's Annual Report on Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

Management is responsible for establishing and maintaining adequate internal control over financial reporting as such term is defined in Exchange Act Rule 13a-15(f) or 15d-15(f). With the participation and supervision of the Bank´s CEO and CFO, its management has assessed the effectiveness of its internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2007.

The assessment includes the documentation and understanding of the Bank's internal control over financial reporting. Management evaluated the design effectiveness and tested the operational effectiveness of internal controls over financial reporting to form its conclusion.

Management's evaluation was based on criteria set forth by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission (COSO) in Internal Control-Integrated Framework.

Internal control over financial reporting is a process designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Bank´s internal control over financial reporting includes those policies and procedures that:

(1) pertain to the maintenance of records that, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the Bank´s transactions and dispositions of its assets;

(2) provide reasonable assurance that transactions are recorded as necessary to permit preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and that the Bank´s receipts and expenditures are being made only in accordance with authorizations of the Bank´s management and the Board; and

(3) provide reasonable assurance regarding prevention or timely detection of unauthorized acquisition, use, or disposition of the Bank's assets that could have a material effect on its financial statements.

Because of its inherent limitations, internal control over financial reporting determined to be effective can provide only reasonable assurance with respect to financial statement preparation and may not prevent or detect all misstatements. Also, projections of any evaluation of effectiveness to future periods are subject to the risk that controls may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the policies or procedures may deteriorate.

Based on the COSO criteria and the Bank´s management's evaluation, the Bank's management has concluded that its internal control over financial reporting was effective as of December 31, 2007.

c) Attestation Report of the Registered Public Accounting Firm

The Company's independent registered public accounting firm, Deloitte Inc, has issued an attestation report on the effectiveness of the Bank's internal control over financial reporting, which is included in Item 18, "Financial Statements", for reference.

d) Changes in Internal Controls

Item 16C. Principal Accountant Fees and Services

At the Bank's Annual Shareholders' Meeting held on April 18, 2007, in Panama City, Panama, stockholders appointed Deloitte Inc. as the Bank's new independent auditors for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2007. The change was approved and recommended to stockholders by the Audit and Compliance Committee of the Bank's Board of Directors. The recommendation was based on cost efficiency reasons.

Deloitte Inc. is a registered public accounting firm. In the year ended December 31, 2006, and prior to the appointment on April 18, 2007, the Bank did not engage Deloitte Inc. on any matters. The Bank has been advised by Deloitte Inc. that neither that firm nor any of its affiliates has any relationship with the Bank or its subsidiaries, other than the relationship that typically exists between independent auditors and their clients.

The reports of Deloitte Inc., the Bank's independent auditor from April 19, 2007 through December 31, 2007, on the Bank's consolidated financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2007 contained no adverse opinion or disclaimer of opinion and were not qualified or modified as to uncertainty, audit scope or accounting principle.

The reports of KPMG, the Bank's independent auditor through April 18, 2007, on the Bank's consolidated financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2006 contained no adverse opinion or disclaimer of opinion and were not qualified or modified as to uncertainty, audit scope or accounting principle. In addition, there have been no reportable events, as defined in Item 304 (a) (1) (v) of Regulation S-K. The following table sets forth the aggregate fees billed for each of the fiscal years ended December 31, 2006 for professional services rendered by the Bank's former independent auditors, KPMG, and for the professional services rendered by the Bank's current independent auditors, Deloitte Inc.:

	Year 2006 KPMG	Year 2007 Deloitte Inc.
Audit Fees	$ 471,693	$ 426,495

Tax Fees		37,500		0
All Other Fees		22,485	$	39,509
Total	$	531,678	$	466,004

The following is a description of the type of services included within the categories listed above:

- Audit fees include aggregate fees billed for professional services rendered by Deloitte Inc. in 2007 and KPMG in 2006, for the audit of the Bank's annual financial statements or services that are normally provided in connection with statutory and regulatory filings or engagements for those fiscal years. During 2007 and 2006, no audit-related fees (which relate to the assurance and services related to the performance of the audit or review of the Bank's financial statements) were paid by the Bank.

- Tax fees include aggregate fees billed for professional services rendered by Deloitte Inc. in 2007 and KPMG in 2006 for tax compliance, tax advice and tax planning. For the year 2007, the Bank hired PricewaterhouseCoopers to prepare and sign as a preparer the Bank's U.S. Federal, New York State and New York City, and Florida, and corporate income/franchise tax returns, as well as calculate quarterly estimated tax payments and prepare required estimated tax payment forms.
- All other fees include aggregate fees billed for products and services provided by Deloitte Inc. in 2007 and KPMG in 2006 to the Bank, other than the services reported in the three preceding paragraphs.

The Audit and Compliance Committee pre-approves all audit and non-audit services to be provided to the Bank by the Bank's independent auditors.

Item 16E. Purchases of Equity Securities by the Issuer and Affiliated Purchasers

On August 5, 2004, the Bank established a $50 million three-year open market stock repurchase program under which it could, from time to time, repurchase its Class E shares of common stock on the open market at the then prevailing market price. Repurchases under the program were made in accordance with applicable law and subject to all required regulatory approvals. The repurchases were made using Bladex's cash resources, and the program could have been suspended or discounted at any time without prior notice.

Notes to consolidated financial statements

In addition, Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones Limited, a wholly owned subsidiary incorporated under the laws of the Cayman Islands ceased its banking operations on November 30, 2004 and was dissolved in 2005. All financial assets and liabilities were transferred to Bladex Head Office and recorded at their carrying amount on the date of the transfer.

2. Summary of significant accounting policies

a) Basis of presentation

These consolidated financial statements have been prepared under accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (“U.S. GAAP”). All amounts presented in the consolidated financial statements and notes are expressed in dollars of the United Stated of America (“US$”), which is the Bank’s functional currency. The accompanying consolidated financial statements have been translated from Spanish version to English version for users outside of the Republic of Panama.

b) Principles of consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of Bladex Head Office, its agencies and subsidiaries. All intercompany balances and transactions have been eliminated for consolidation purposes.

c) Use of estimates

The preparation of the consolidated financial statements requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent liabilities at the date of the consolidated financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Material estimates that are particularly susceptible to significant changes relate to the determination of the allowances for credit losses, impairment losses on assets, impairment of securities available for sale and held to maturity, and the fair value of financial instruments. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Management believes these estimates are adequate.

d) Cash equivalents

Cash equivalents consist of due from banks and interest-bearing deposits in banks with original maturities of three months or less, except deposits pledged.

e) Repurchase agreements

Repurchase agreements represent collateralized financing transactions used to increase liquidity and are carried at the amounts at which the securities will be subsequently reacquired including accrued interest, as specified in the respective agreements. The Bank’s policy is to relinquish possession of the securities sold under agreements to repurchase. The market value of securities to be repurchased is permanently monitored, and additional collateral is provided where appropriate, to protect against credit exposure.

Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones, S. A.
and Subsidiaries

Notes to consolidated financial statements

f) Trading assets and liabilities

Trading assets include mainly debt instruments and shares in indexed funds that have been bought and held principally for the purpose of selling them in the near term. Trading liabilities include debt instruments that the Bank has sold to other parties but does not own ("short" positions). The Bank is obliged to purchase securities at a future date to cover short positions. Included in trading assets and liabilities are the reported receivables (unrealized gains) and payables (unrealized losses) related to derivative instruments. These amounts include the derivative assets and liabilities net of cash received or paid, respectively, under legally enforceable master netting agreements. Trading assets and liabilities are carried at fair value, which is determined based upon quoted prices when available, or if quoted market prices are not available, on discounted expected cash flows using market rates commensurate with the credit quality and maturity of the security. Unrealized and realized gains and losses on trading assets and liabilities are recorded in earnings as trading gains (losses).

Transactions traded not yet settled at the consolidated balance sheet date are recorded as brokerage receivables and payables.

g) Investment securities

Securities are classified at the date of purchase based on the ability and intent to sell or hold them as investments. These securities consist of debt securities such as: negotiable commercial paper, bonds and floating rate notes.

Securities available for sale

These securities consist of debt instruments that the Bank buys with the intention of selling them prior to maturity and are subject to the same approval criteria as the rest of the credit portfolio. These securities are carried at fair value, based on quoted market prices when available, or if quoted market prices are not available, on discounted expected cash flows using market rates commensurate with the credit quality and maturity of the security. Unrealized gains and losses are reported as net increase or decreases to accumulated other comprehensive income (loss) in equity until they are realized.

Securities held to maturity

Securities classified as held to maturity represent securities that the Bank has the ability and the intent to hold until maturity. These securities are carried at amortized cost and are subject to the same approval criteria as the rest of the credit portfolio.

Interest on securities is recognized based on the interest method. Amortization of premiums and accretion of discounts are included in interest income as an adjustment to the yield. Realized gains and losses from the sales of securities which are included in realized gain (loss) from investment securities, are determined using the specific identification method.

Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones, S. A.
and Subsidiaries

Notes to consolidated financial statements

Impairment of investments is evaluated considering numerous factors, and their relative significance varies case by case. Factors considered include the length of time and extent to which the market value has been less than cost, the financial condition and near-term prospects of the issuer and the intent and ability of the Bank to retain the security in order to allow for an anticipated recovery in market value. If, based on the analysis, it is determined that the impairment is other-than-temporary, the security is written down to its fair value, and a loss is recognized through earnings as impairment loss on assets. Accrual of income is suspended on fixed maturities that are in default, or on which it is likely that future interest payments will not be received as scheduled.

h) Other Investments

Other investments, that mainly consist of unlisted stock, are recorded at cost and are included in other assets. The Bank determined that it is not practicable to obtain the market value of these investments, as these shares are not traded in a secondary market. Impairment of these investments is evaluated periodically and declines that are determined to be other than temporary are charged to earnings as impairment on assets.

i) Loans

Loans are reported at their principal amounts outstanding net of unearned income, deferred fees and allowance for loan losses. Interest income is recognized using the interest method. The amortization of net unearned income and deferred fees are recognized as an adjustment to the related loan yield using the interest method.

Purchased loans are recorded at acquisition cost. The difference between the principal and the acquisition cost of loans, the premiums and discounts, is amortized over the life of the loan as an adjustment to the yield. All other costs related to acquisition of loans are expensed when incurred.

Loans are identified as impaired and placed on a cash (non-accrual) basis when interest or principal is past due for 90 days or more, or before if the Bank's management determines that the ultimate collection of principal or interest is doubtful. Factors considered by the Bank’s management in determining impairment include collection status, collateral value, the probability of collecting scheduled principal and interest payments when due, and economic conditions in the borrower’s country of residence. Any interest receivable is reversed and charged-off against earnings. Interest on non-accruing loans is only recorded as earned when collected. Non-accruing loans are returned to an accrual status when (1) all contractual principal and interest amounts are current (2) there is a sustained period of repayment performance in accordance with the contractual terms of at least six months; and (3) if in the Bank management’s opinion the loan is fully collectible. When current events or available information confirm that specific impaired loans or portions thereof are uncollectible, such impaired loans are charged-off against the allowance for loan losses.

A loan is classified as a troubled debt restructuring if a significant concession in amount, maturity or interest rate is granted to the borrower due to the deterioration in its financial condition. Marketable securities received in exchange for loan under debt restructurings are initially recorded at fair value, with any gain or loss recorded as recovery or charge to the allowance, and are subsequently accounted for as securities available for sale.

Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones, S. A.
and Subsidiaries

Notes to consolidated financial statements

Transfers of financial assets, primarily loans, are accounted for as sales when control over the assets has been surrendered. Control over transferred assets is deemed to be surrendered when: (1) the assets have been isolated from the Bank; (2) the transferee obtains the right (free of conditions that constrain it from taking advantage of that right) to pledge or exchange the transferred assets; and (3) the Bank does not maintain effective control over the transferred assets through an agreement to repurchase them before their maturity. Upon completion of a transfer of assets that satisfies the conditions described above to be accounted for as a sale, the Bank recognizes the assets as sold and records in earnings any gain or loss on the sale. The Bank may retain interest in loans sold in the form of servicing rights. Service rights are only recognized when the benefits of the service exceeds the costs associated with the responsibility of that service.

j) Allowance for credit losses

The allowance for credit losses is provided for losses derived from the credit extension process, inherent in the loan portfolio and off-balance sheet financial instruments, using the reserve method of providing for credit losses. Additions to the allowance for credit losses are made by charges to earnings. Credit losses are deducted from the allowance, and subsequent recoveries are added. The allowance is also decreased by reversals of the allowance back to earnings. The allowance attributable to loans is reported as a deduction of loans and the allowance for off-balance sheet credit risk, such as: letters of credit and guarantees, is reported as a liability.

The allowance for possible credit losses includes an asset-specific component and a formula-based component. The asset-specific component relates to provision for losses on credits considered impaired and measured on a case-by-case basis. An allowance is established when the discounted cash flows (or collateral value of observable market price) of the credit is lower than the carrying value of that credit. The formula-based component covers the Bank's performing credit portfolio and is established based in a process that estimates the probable loss inherent in the portfolio, based on statistical analysis and management's qualitative judgment. The statistical calculation is a product of internal risk classifications, probabilities of default and loss given default. The probability of default is supported by Bladex's historical portfolio performance complemented by probabilities of default provided by external sources for higher risk cases, in view of the greater robustness of this external data for such cases. The loss given default is based on Bladex's historical losses experience and best practices.

k) Fair value of guarantees including indirect indebtedness of others

The Bank recognizes a liability for the fair value of obligations undertaken such as stand-by letters of credit and guarantees. Fair value is calculated based on the present value of the premium to be received or a specific allowance for off-balance sheet credit contingencies, whichever is greater.

and Subsidiaries

Notes to consolidated financial statements

l) Fees and commissions

Loan origination fees, net of direct loan origination costs, are deferred, and the net amount is recognized as revenue over the contractual term of the loans as an adjustment to the yield. These net fees are not recognized as revenue during periods in which interest income on loans is suspended because of concerns about the realization of loan principal or interest. Underwriting fees are recognized as revenue when the Bank has rendered all services to the issuer and is entitled to collect the fee from the issuer, when there are no contingencies related to the fee. Underwriting fees are recognized net of syndicate expenses. In addition, the Bank recognizes credit arrangement and syndication fees as revenue after satisfying certain retention, timing and yield criteria. Fees received in connection with a modification of terms of a troubled debt restructuring are applied as a reduction of the recorded investment in the loan. Fees earned on letters of credit, guarantees and other commitments are amortized using the straight-line method over the life of such instruments.

m) Premises and equipment

Premises and equipment, including the electronic data processing equipment, are carried at cost less accumulated depreciation and amortization, except land, which is carried at cost. Depreciation and amortization are charged to operations using the straight-line method, over the estimated useful life of the related asset. The estimated original useful life for building is 40 years and for furniture and equipment is 3 to 5 years.

The Bank defers the cost of internal-use software that has a useful life in excess of one year in accordance with SOP 98-1, "Accounting for the Costs of Computer Software Developed or Obtained for Internal Use". These costs consist of payments made to third parties related to the use of licenses and installation of both, software and hardware. Subsequent additions, modifications or upgrades to internal-use software are capitalized only to the extent that they allow the software to perform a task it previously did not perform. Software maintenance and training costs are expensed in the period in which they are incurred. Capitalized internal use software costs will be amortized using the straight-line method over their estimated useful lives, generally consisting of 5 years.

n) Capital reserves

Capital reserves are established as a segregation of retained earnings and are, as such, a form of retained earnings. Even though their constitution is not required by the SBP, reductions of these capital reserves require the approval of the Bank's Board of Directors and the SBP.

o) Cash and stock-based compensation plan

In year 2005, the Bank chose to early adopt Statement of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No.123(R), "Share-Based Payment", which established the use of the fair-value-based method of accounting for stock-based compensation to key employees and directors. The Bank elected to use the "modified prospective application" for new and previously granted awards that are not fully vested on the effective date. Compensation cost is based on the fair value of the awards granted and is recognized over the requisite service period of the award. The fair value of each option is estimated at the grant date using the Black-Scholes option-pricing model. The Bank has the policy of re-issuing shares from treasury shares, when options are exercised.

and Subsidiaries

Notes to consolidated financial statements

p) Redeemable preferred stock

The Bank accounts for as liabilities all financial instruments that embody an obligation to the Bank. The accrual of interest payable is charged to interest expense.

q) Derivative financial instruments and hedge accounting

The Bank makes use of derivative financial instruments for its management of interest rate and foreign exchange risks, which represent the majority of the Bank's derivatives, as well as for trading purposes. The accounting for changes in value of a derivative depends on whether the contract is for trading purposes or has been designated and qualifies for hedge accounting.

Derivatives held for trading purposes include interest rate swaps, forward foreign exchange contracts and credit default swaps, as part of the Fund's trading activity, and those used for risk management purposes that do not qualify for hedge accounting. The fair value of trading derivatives is reported as trading assets and trading liabilities, as applicable. Changes in realized and unrealized gains and losses and interest flows from these trading instruments are included in trading gains (losses).

Derivatives for hedging purposes primarily include interest rate swaps and forward foreign exchange contracts. Derivative contracts designated and qualifying as fair value hedge are reported as other assets and other liabilities and hedge accounting is applied. In order to qualify for hedge accounting, a derivative must be considered highly effective at reducing the risk associated with the exposure being hedged. Each derivative must be designated as a hedge, with documentation of the risk management objective and strategy, including identification of the hedging instrument, the hedged item and the risk exposure, as well as how effectiveness will be assessed prospectively and retrospectively. The extent to which a hedging instrument is effective at achieving offsetting changes in fair value or cash flows must be assessed at least quarterly. Any ineffectiveness must be reported in current-period earnings. The Bank discontinues hedge accounting prospectively in the following situations:

1. It is determined that the derivative is no longer effective in offsetting changes in the fair value or cash flows of a hedged item.
2. The derivative expires or is sold, terminated or exercised.
3. The Bank otherwise determines that designation of the derivative as a hedging instrument is no longer appropriate.

The Bank carries all derivatives in the consolidated balance sheet at fair value. For qualifying fair value hedges, all changes in the fair value of the derivative and the fair value of the item for the risk being hedged are recognized in earnings. If the hedge relationship is terminated, then the fair value adjustment to the hedge item continues to be reported as part of the basis of the item and is amortized to earnings as a yield adjustment. For qualifying cash flow hedges, the effective portion of the change in the fair value of the derivative is recorded in other comprehensive income and recognized in the income statement when the hedged cash flows affect earnings. Ineffective portion is recognized in the income statement as activities of hedging derivative instruments. If the cash flow hedge relationship is terminated, related amounts in other comprehensive income are reclassified into earnings when hedged cash flows occur.

Notes to consolidated financial statements

r) Foreign currency transactions

Assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into U.S. dollar equivalents using period-end spot foreign exchange rates. The effects of re-measuring assets and liabilities into the U.S. dollar as the functional currency are included in earnings.

s) Income taxes

- Bladex Head Office is exempted from payment of income taxes in Panama in accordance to its Constitutive Law that granted special benefits, including the total exemption of income tax payment.
- The Feeder and the Fund are not subject to income taxes in accordance to Laws of the Caiman Islands.
- Clavex, S.A. is subject to income taxes in Panama on profits from local operations.
- Bladex Representacao Ltd. is subject to income taxes in Brazil.
- The New York Agency and Bladex's subsidiaries incorporated in the USA are subject to USA federal and local taxation based on the portion of income that is effectively connected with its operations in that country.

Such amounts of income taxes have been immaterial to date.

t) Earnings per share

Basic earnings per share is computed by dividing income available to common stockholders (the numerator) by the weighted average number of common shares outstanding (the denominator) during the year. Diluted earning per share measures performance incorporating the effect that potential common shares, such as stock options outstanding during the same period, would have on earning per share. The computation is similar to the computation of earning per share, except that the denominator is increased to include the number of additional common shares that would have been outstanding if the diluted potential common shares had been issued.

u) Recently Issued Accounting Standards

SFAS No. 157: Fair Value Measurement

SFAS No. 157 defines fair value, establishes a framework for measuring fair value under U.S. GAAP, and enhances disclosures about fair value measurements. This Standard applies when other accounting pronouncements require fair value measurements. This Standard is effective for financial statements issued for fiscal years beginning after November 15, 2007, and interim periods within those years. The Bank does not anticipate any significant effect on its consolidated financial position, operations and cash flows with the adoption of SFAS No.157.

SFAS No. 159: The Fair Value Option for Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities.

SFAS No. 159 will allow the Bank to report at fair value many of its financial instruments and certain other items that are not currently required to be reported at fair value. The valuation of a financial instrument at fair value is irrevocable once adopted. All changes in fair value are reported in earnings. This standard is effective for years beginning after November 15, 2007. The Bank is currently evaluating the potential impact on its consolidated financial statements of adopting this standard.

Notes to consolidated financial statements

At December 31, 2007 and 2006, securities available for sale with a carrying value of $323 million each year, were pledged to secure repurchase agreements.

The following table discloses those securities that have had unrealized losses for less than 12 months or for 12 months or longer:

(In thousand of US$)	December 31, 2007

	25,959	270	66,795	945	92,754	1,215

Gross unrealized losses are related mainly to an overall increase in market interest rates and market credit spreads and not due to underlying credit concerns about the issuers. At December 31, 2007, the Bank believes that none of the securities in its investment portfolio are other-than-temporarily impaired.

During 2006 and 2005, the Bank collected Argentine impaired securities for $5.6 million and $10.7 million, respectively, which had been written-off and charged to earnings in prior years. These recoveries were recorded in earnings as recoveries on assets. During the year 2005, an impaired security with a net carrying value of $0.5 million was written-off and charged to earnings as a decrease to recoveries on assets.

The following table presents the realized gains and losses on securities available for sale:

7. Allowance for credit losses

The allowance for credit losses is available to absorb estimated probable credit losses existing in the credit portfolio at the date of the consolidated balance sheets. During 2005, Bladex implemented a new methodology for estimating generic allowances for credit losses. The new methodology incorporates statistical data on Bladex's historical loss performance to calculate the expected loss and loss given default ratios, replacing the use of general probability of default information from rating agencies used in the former model. The Bank believes that this new methodology represents a change in determining an adequate level of allowance for credit losses. The effect of the change in methodology for periods ending before December 31, 2005 is included into the 2005 earnings and represented a net reversal of provisions for $2.7 million (reversal of $5.9 million in provision for loan losses and increase of $3.2 million in provision for off-balance sheet risk). The net effect of the change for the year ended December 31, 2005 was a decrease of $10 million in net income ($0.26 per share).

The Bank classifies the allowance for credit losses into two components:

a) Allowance for loan losses:

(In thousand of US$)		December 31,
	2007	2006	2005
Balance at beginning of the year	51,266	39,448	106,352
Provision (reversal) for loan losses:
Current year allocation	11,994	11,846	(48,180)
Effect of a change in the credit loss reserve methodology - 2005	-	-	(5,975)
	11,994	11,846	(54,155)
Cumulative effect on prior years (to December 31, 2004) of a change in the credit loss reserve methodology	-	-	(5,937)
Loan recoveries	6,434	3	2,612
Loans written-off against the allowance for loan losses	(51)	(31)	(9,424)
Balance at end of the year	69,643	51,266	39,448

Reversal of provision for credit losses are mostly related to reserves assigned and recovery of the Bank's Argentine non-accruing portfolio, which was collected during the last three years.

b) Reserve for losses on off-balance sheet credit risk:

(In thousand of US$)		December 31,
	2007	2006	2005
Balance at beginning of the year	27,195	52,086	33,101

Provision (reversal) for losses on off-balance sheet credit risk:
Current year allocation	(13,468)	(24,891)	(210)
Effect of a change in the credit loss reserve methodology - 2005	-	-	15,991
	(13,468)	(24,891)	15,781
Cumulative effect on prior years (to December 31, 2004) of a change in the credit loss reserve methodology	-	-	3,204
Balance at end of the year	13,727	27,195	52,086

Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones, S. A.
and Subsidiaries

Notes to consolidated financial statements

The reserve for losses on off-balance sheet credit risk reflects the Bank's management estimate of probable losses on off-balance sheet credit risk items such as: confirmed letters of credit, stand-by letters of credit, guarantees and credit commitments (see Note 16).

8. Other Assets

At December 31, 2007 and 2006, other assets include an equity investment in a private investment fund for $2.4 million and $3.1 million, respectively. During 2007, the Bank invested $0.4 million in the fund, and received a total of $1.1 million of capital distribution that generated a net loss of $106 thousand. Redeemed Preferred Stock:

On May 15, 2006, the Bank redeemed all non-voting preferred shares outstanding. In case of a liquidation of the Bank, the preferred stockholders were entitled to receive a liquidation preference of $10 per share, plus accrued and unpaid dividends. The Bank redeemed preferred stock at its par value by 20% of the aggregate par value of the preferred stock outstanding as of March 15, 2002, and on March 15 of each of the subsequent years up to 2006. At December 31, 2007 and 2006, the Bank had $1.3 million and $1.9 million, respectively, representing 126,448 and 193,623 preferred shares, respectively, redeemed but not claimed by preferred shareholders, which are recorded in other liabilities. Preferred stockholders had the right to receive an interest equivalent to the same percentage as the common stockholders (excluding from the calculation any common stock issued as stock dividend).

13. Common stock

The Bank’s common stock is divided into three categories:

1) Class “A”; shares may only be issued to Latin American Central Banks or banks in which the state or other government agency is the majority shareholder.
2) Class “B”; shares may only be issued to banks or financial institutions.
3) Class “E”; shares may be issued to any person whether a natural person or a legal entity.

The holders of Class “B” shares have the right to convert or exchange their Class “B” shares, at any time, and without restriction, for Class “E” shares, at a rate of one to one. On August 3, 2004, the Board of Directors authorized a three-year stock repurchase program under which Bladex may, from time to time, repurchase up to an aggregate of $50 million of its Class E shares of common stock, in the open market at the prevailing market price. 14. Cash and stock-based compensation plans

The Bank established equity compensation plans under which it administers restricted stock and stock option plans to attract, retain and motivate Directors, and key employees and compensate them for their contributions to the growth and profitability of the Bank.

Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones, S. A.
and Subsidiaries

Notes to consolidated financial statements

During 2005 the Bank adopted SFAS No. 123(R) "Share-Based Payment". As a result of the early adoption of this rule, compensation cost of $555 thousand was recorded in 2005. The adjustment of $150 thousand to retroactively apply the new method was charged to income of 2005.

Restricted Stock - Directors

During 2003, the Board of Directors approved a restricted stock award plan for Directors of the Bank that was amended during 2007. These Class "E" stocks may be sourced from treasury stock, or authorized unissued shares. Until 2006, the plan allowed Directors to receive Class "E" shares for each Director on an annual basis worth $10 thousand, and to the Chairman of the Board worth $15 thousand. Following the amendment of this award plan, starting in 2007, annually the Board may grant Class "E" shares for each Director worth $50 thousand, and to the Chairman of the Board worth $75 thousand, all based on Bladex's closing price in the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") at the trading date of the grant. The restricted stocks have a cliff vesting period of five years after the grant date. During 2007, 2006, and 2005, the Bank issued under this plan 22,240, 5,967, and 5,320 Class "E" common shares, respectively. Costs of restricted stock issued under this plan for $475 thousand in 2007, and $95 thousand in 2006 and 2005, are amortized during the cliff vesting period. Related costs charged against income totaled $118 thousand, $65 thousand and $46 thousand in 2007, 2006 and 2005, respectively. At December 31, 2007 remaining compensation cost for $587 thousand will be amortized over 3.06 years.

Stock Option Plan 2006 - Directors and Key Employees

On December 12, 2006, the Bank's Board of Directors adopted the 2006 Stock Option Plan. The maximum aggregate number of shares which may be issued under the 2006 Stock Option Plan is two million Class E common shares. However, if there are any modifications to the number of shares representing the outstanding common stock of the Bank, as a result of a stock dividend, combination of stock or change in the corporate structure, the number of shares that may be issued under the 2006 Stock Option Plan will be revised. Under the 2006 Stock Option Plan, the Bank's Board of Directors, with the recommendation and advice of the Nomination and Compensation Committee, may authorize the grant of options to any one or more key employees or directors of the Bank, as well as determine or impose conditions upon the grant or exercise of Options under the Plan. The Options expire seven years after the grant date and, except otherwise provided in the award agreement, shall be exercisable beginning on the fourth anniversary of the date of grant.

During 2007, the Board of Directors granted $95 thousand in stock options to members of the Board of Directors and $890 thousand in stock options to key employees of the Bank. At December 31, 2007, related cost charged against income was $302 thousand. Remaining compensation cost for $709 thousand will be amortized over 3.12 years. The fair value of each option granted is estimated at the grant date using the Black-Scholes option-pricing model, based on the following factors:

		December 31, 2007
Weighted average fair value option	$	4.72
Weighted average expected terms, in years		5.50

Indexed Stock Option Plan

During 2003, the Board of Directors approved an indexed stock option plan for Directors and key employees of the Bank, which was subsequently terminated in April 2006. On an annual basis, the plan allowed Directors to receive options to purchase Class "E" shares from treasury shares already held, for an equivalent amount of $10 thousand, and for the Chairman of the Board, an equivalent amount of $15 thousand. The number of options granted for key employees was determined by the Board of Directors based on the target of each eligible position and the value of the option at grant date. The indexed stock options expire in seven years with a cliff-vesting period of four years. The exercise price is adjusted based on the change in a customized Latin America general market index. As of December 31, 2007, the Bank had an unrecognized compensation cost of $689 thousand related to non-vested options granted under the indexed stock option plan, which will be recognized over a period of 1.70 years. Related costs charged against income amounted to $828 thousand in 2007, $635 thousand in 2006, and $385 thousand in 2005. The fair value of each option granted is estimated at the grant date using the Black-Scholes option-pricing model, based on the following factors:

		2007		2006		2005
Weighted average fair value option	$	6.02	$	4.5	$	5.3

Stock Option Plan - Discontinued

During 2000, the Board of Directors approved a stock option plan for Directors and employees of the Bank. The exercise price of each option must equal 100% of the market value of the stock at the grant date and becomes 100% exercisable one year after the grant date and expires on the fifth year after the grant date. In addition, during 1995 and 1999, the Board of Directors approved two stock option plans for employees. Under these stock option plans, stock options were granted at a purchase price equal to the average market value of the common stock at the grant date. One third of the options may be exercised on each successive year after the grant date and expire on the tenth anniversary after the grant date. On July 19, 2003, the Board of Directors approved discontinuing these plans therefore, no additional stock options have been granted.

Other employee plans

Expatriate Officer Plan:
The Bank sponsors a defined contribution plan for its expatriate top executives. The Bank's contributions are determined as a percentage of the eligible officers' annual salaries, with each officer contributing an additional amount withheld from his salary. Contributions from officers were deposited in a saving account with the Bank at market interest rates until March 2007, when the Bank transferred the balance of contributions from both, the Bank and the officers, to a trust that is managed by a fund manager. Officers are entitled to the contributions from the Bank once they have worked with the Bank for at least three years. During the years 2007, 2006 and 2005, the Bank charged to salaries expense, $175 thousand, $261 thousand and $165 thousand, respectively. As of December 31, 2007, 2006 and 2005, the accumulated liability payable amounted to $382 thousand, $745 thousand and $484 thousand, respectively.

Deferred Equity Unit Plan (the "DEU Plan"):
In 1999, the Board of Directors approved the adoption of the DEU Plan, which was subsequently terminated in July 2003. This plan expired in February 2006 and employees exercised their rights in cash or shares.

Deferred Compensation Plan (the "DC Plan"):
In 1999, the Board of Directors approved the adoption of the DC Plan, which was subsequently terminated in July 2003. The DC Plan has two separate features. Under the first component, the Bank could grant to each eligible employee a number of DEU equal to an amount equivalent to a percentage, not to exceed 3%, of the employee's compensation, divided by the market value of a Class "E" share. Eligible employees would vest the DEU after three years of service. Distributions were made in respect of DEU on the later of (i) the date the vested DEU were credited to an employee's account and (ii) ten years after the employee was first credited with DEU under the DC Plan. Participating employees receive dividends, with respect to their unvested deferred equity units. The second component allowed employees who are not citizens or residents of the United States of America to defer a percentage of their compensation, and receive discretionary matching cash contribution. In no event could the value of (i) the discretionary matching cash contribution made on behalf of an employee and (ii) the grant of deferred equity units made to such employees exceed 6% of the employee's annual base compensation. A summary of the status of the DC Plan is presented bellow:

	2007	2006	2005
Outstanding, beginning of year	23,779	27,953	28,351
Exercised	(1,597)	(4,174)	(398)
Outstanding, end of year	22,182	23,779	27,953

As of December 31, 2007, 2006, and 2005, expenses recorded were $20 thousand, $48 thousand, and $67 thousand, respectively.

These financial instruments involve, to varying degrees, elements of credit and market risk in excess of the amount recognized in the consolidated balance sheets. Credit risk represents the possibility of loss resulting from the failure of a customer to perform in accordance with the terms of a contract.

Letters of credit and guarantees
The Bank, on behalf of its client base, advises and confirms letters of credit to facilitate foreign trade transactions. When confirming letters of credit, the Bank adds its own unqualified assurance that the issuing bank will pay and that if the issuing bank does not honor drafts drawn on the credit, the Bank will. The Bank provides stand-by letters of credit and guarantees, including country risk guarantees, which are issued on behalf of institutional customers in connection with financing between its customers and third parties. The Bank applies the same credit policies used in its lending process, and once issued the commitment is irrevocable and remains valid until its expiration. Credit risk arises from the Bank's obligation to make payment in the event of a customer's contractual default to a third party. Risks associated with stand-by letters of credit and guarantees are included in the evaluation of the Bank's overall credit risk. The Bank issues stand-by letters and guarantees to provide coverage for country risk arising from the risk of convertibility and transferability of local currency of countries in the Region into hard currency, and to provide coverage for country risk arising from political risks, such as expropriation, nationalization, war and/or civil disturbances.

Credit commitments
Commitments to extend credit are a combination of either non-binding or legal agreements to lend to a customer. Commitments generally have fixed expiration dates or other termination clauses and may require payment of a fee to the Bank. As some commitments expire without being drawn down, the total commitment amounts do not necessarily represent future cash requirements.

Occupancy expense for years ended December 31, 2007, 2006 and 2005, amounted to $593 thousand, $637 thousand, and $447 thousand, respectively.

Other commitments

Purchase Agreements
The Bank has signed service agreements with certain vendors that provide services that are necessary for the ongoing operations of its business and mainly related to the maintenance of a new technology platform and telecommunications services. The terms of these agreements are up to 8 years and some of them can be renegotiated for annual or semiannual price adjustments, after the fifth year.

Under the terms of these agreements, the Bank has committed to contractually specified minimums payments over the contractual periods as follows:

The contractual minimum payments are:

18. Derivative financial instruments

At December 31, 2007 and 2006, quantitative information on derivative financial instruments held for hedging purposes is as follows:

	2007			2006
(In thousand of US$)	Nominal Amount	Fair Value		Nominal Amount	Fair Value
		Asset	Liability		Asset	Liability
Fair value hedges:

Total	464,733	122	16,899	271,106	541	2,634
Net loss on the ineffective portion of hedging activities	(989)			(225)

For control purposes, derivative instruments are recorded at their nominal amount ("notional amount") in memorandum accounts. Interest rate swaps are made either in a single currency or cross currency for a prescribed period to exchange a series of interest rate flows, which involve fixed for floating interest payments. The Bank also engages in some foreign exchange trades to serve customers' transaction needs and to manage the foreign currency risk. All such positions are hedged with an offsetting contract for the same currency. The Bank manages and controls the risks on these foreign exchange trades by establishing counter party credit limits by customer and by adopting policies that do not allow for open positions in the credit and investment portfolio. Derivative and foreign exchange instruments negotiated by the Bank are executed mainly over-the-counter (OTC). These contracts are executed between two counter parties that negotiate specific agreement terms, including notional amount, exercise price and maturity. During 2005, the Bank settled, prior to maturity, certain hedge relationships accounted for as fair value hedges and recorded $2.1 million in other income under derivative and hedging activities. These interest rate swaps were considered highly effective at reducing the interest rate risk associated with available for sale securities.

The Bank estimates that approximately $127 thousand of gains reported in other comprehensive income (loss) at December 31, 2007, related to forward foreign exchange contracts were expected to be reclassified into interest expense as an adjustment to yield adjustment of hedged liabilities during the twelve-month period ending December 31, 2008.

The Bank estimates that approximately $183 thousand of losses reported in other comprehensive income (loss) at December 31, 2007 related to forward foreign exchange contracts were expected to be reclassified into interest income as an adjustment to yield of hedged loans during the twelve-month period ending December 31, 2008.

Notes to consolidated financial statements

Types of Derivative and Foreign Exchange Instruments
Interest rate swaps are contracts in which a series of interest rate flows in a single currency are exchanged over a prescribed period. The Bank has designated a portion of these derivative instruments as fair value hedges. Cross currency swaps are contracts that generally involve the exchange of both interest and principal amounts in two different currencies. The Bank has designated a portion of these derivative instruments as fair value hedges. Forward foreign exchange contracts represent an agreement to purchase or sell foreign currency on a future date at agreed upon term. The Bank has designated a portion of these derivative instruments as fair value and cash flow hedges.

19. Accumulated other comprehensive income (loss)

As of December 31, 2007, 2006 and 2005 the breakdown of accumulated other comprehensive income (loss) related to investment securities available for sale and derivatives is as follows:

(1) Reclassification adjustments include amounts recognized in net income during the current year that had been part of other comprehensive income in this and previous years.

20. Fair value of financial instruments

Bank's management uses its best judgment in estimating the fair value of the Bank's financial instruments; however, there are limitations in any estimation technique. Therefore, for substantially all financial instruments, the fair value estimates herein are not necessarily an indicative of the amounts the Bank could have realized in a sale transaction on the dates indicated. The estimated fair value amounts have been measured as of their respective year-ends, and have not been re-expressed or updated subsequent to the dates of these consolidated financial statements. As such, the estimated fair values of these financial instruments subsequent to the respective reporting dates may be different than the amounts reported at each year-end.

The following information should not be interpreted as an estimate of the fair value of the Bank. Fair value calculations are only provided for a limited portion of the Bank's assets and liabilities. Due to a wide range of valuation techniques and the degree of subjectivity used in making the estimates, comparison of fair value information of the Bank and other companies may not be meaningful for comparative analysis. The following methods and assumptions were used by management in estimating the fair values of each type of financial instruments:

Financial instruments with carrying value equal to fair value

The carrying value of certain financial assets, including cash and due from banks, interest-bearing deposits in banks, accrued interest receivable, customers' liabilities under acceptances and certain financial liabilities including, customer's demand and time deposits, short-term borrowings and securities sold under repurchase agreement, accrued interest payable, and acceptances outstanding, as a result of their short-term nature, are considered to be equal to fair value.

Trading assets, trading liabilities and investment securities

The fair value of investment securities has been based upon current market quotations, where available. If quoted market prices are not available, fair value has been estimated based upon quoted price of similar instruments, or where these are not available, on discounted expected cash flows using market rates commensurate with the credit quality and maturity of the security.

Loans

The fair value of the performing loan portfolio has been determined principally based upon a discounted analysis of anticipated cash flows adjusted for expected credit losses. The loans have been grouped to the extent possible, into homogeneous pools, segregated by maturity and the weighted average maturity of the loans within each pool. Depending upon the type of loan involved, maturity assumptions have been based on either contractual or expected maturity. Credit risk has been factored into the present value analysis of cash flows associated with each loan type, by allocating allowances for loan losses. The allocated portion of the allowance, adjusted by a present value factor based upon the timing of expected losses, has been deducted from the gross cash flows prior to calculating the present value. The fair value of the non-performing loans has been determined net of the related allowance for loan losses.

Borrowings and long-term debt

The fair value of long-term debt and borrowings is estimated using discounted cash flow analysis based on the current incremental borrowing rates for similar types of borrowing arrangements.

Derivative financial instruments

All derivative instruments are recognized in the consolidated balance sheet at fair value. Fair value is based on dealer quotes, pricing models, discounted cash flow analysis or quoted prices for instruments with similar characteristics.

21. Litigation

Bladex is not engaged in any litigation that is material to the Bank's business or, to the best of the knowledge of the Bank's management, that is likely to have an adverse effect on its business, financial condition or results of operations.

22. Business segment information

The Bank's activities are operated and managed by three segments, Commercial, Treasury and Asset Management. The segment information reflects this operational and management structure, in a manner consistent with the requirements outlined in SFAS No. 131, "Disclosures about Segments of an Enterprise and Related Information". The segment results are determined based on the Bank's management accounting process, which assigns consolidated balance sheets, revenue and expense items to each reportable division on a systematic basis.

In 2007 the Bank segregated the Asset Management activities from the Treasury Segment. Business segment information reported in the financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005 has been restated to segregate the new Asset Management Segment.

Commercial incorporates all of the Bank's financial intermediation and fee generation activities. Operating income from the Commercial Segment includes net interest income from loans, fee income and allocated operating expenses.
