Item 8.01 Other Events.

On May 29, 2009, Dennis Michael Nouri, a former officer of Smart Online Inc. (the "Company"), and Reza Eric Nouri, a former employee of the Company, filed a complaint to bring a summary proceeding under Section 145 of the Delaware General Corporation Law against the Company in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware, attached as Exhibit 99.1 hereto (the "Nouri Complaint"). The Nouri Complaint seeks to compel the Company to advance legal fees and costs incurred by the Nouris in their defense of criminal proceedings brought against them by the United States, and in their defense of civil proceedings brought against them by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Company's stockholders, which legal fees are allegedly in the amount of $826,798, together with future expenses that will be incurred by the Nouris in defending the actions against them and the expenses incurred by the Nouris in prosecuting the advancement action against the Company. Such legal fees are in addition to legal fees and costs of over $1.3 million previously paid by the Company's insurance carrier for the benefit of the Nouris in these matters. Such insurance coverage has been exhausted. The Company intends to vigorously contest the complaint and the allegations therein.

In its report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 31, 2009, the Company reported that it had indicated to the Nouris' counsel that the Company would not advance any defense expenses for the criminal action against the Nouris. Upon further deliberation and consultation with counsel, the Company has now qualified that statement to provide that the Company will not advance any such expenses to the extent that it is determined that such expenses are not eligible for advancement, or are determined to be unreasonable. No assurances can be given as to the ultimate outcome of this matter or the costs to the Company to resolve it.
