Converium Holding Ltd, Zug

Zug, Switzerland - February 16, 2006 - Converium reports stable premiums from renewal season.

During the January 2006 renewals Converium wrote and bound an estimated non-life premium volume of around US$ 1.13 billion, which represents a decline of less than 3% (at constant foreign exchange rates). Converium is very satisfied with the renewals. The Company's franchise has remained resilient and robust, despite the challenges presented by its current financial strength ratings. In addition, Converium observed an increasing trend of clients retaining more risk and shifting to non-proportional covers. This resulted in lower overall reinsurance market volume. An additional US$ 410 million of Converium's non-life premium volume will be up for renewal later in 2006. Including life & health business the Company expects total gross premiums written for 2006 of US$ 1.8 to 1.9 billion.

Inga Beale, Converium's new CEO, said: "I am very pleased with this year's renewals. Our underwriting professionals have again done a superb job in maintaining the Converium franchise, in a general market environment which was less favorable than many of us would have expected immediately after the major US hurricanes struck last year."

Inga Beale continued: "Clients and brokers continue to support Converium as a viable alternative in the global reinsurance markets. Their loyalty, in conjunction with our strong capital base and the acknowledged capabilities of our staff, make me confident that we can complete our rebound in due course."

Satisfactory non-life renewals

In January, Converium wrote and bound non-life contracts of US$ 1.13 billion, reflecting more than 97% of the business which was up for renewal (at constant foreign exchange rates as at December 31, 2005). The slight decline in overall renewed business reflects the trend among many clients to retain more risk, i.e. reduce their cessions to reinsurers, as their capital base continues to strengthen. In addition, an increasing number of clients restructured their reinsurance programs in favor of non-proportional, rather than proportional coverage, reducing the premium volume available to reinsurers. Converium managed to offset this decrease in renewed business with premium growth of US$ 78 million as a result of rate or share increases and new business of US$ 116 million. Non-life business worth US$ 410 million will be up for renewal later in 2006.

Growth in marine, motor and property business; decline in more rating-sensitive areas

Converium's Standard Property & Casualty Reinsurance segment wrote and bound US$ 625 million of business, an increase of almost 6%. The Company's Specialty Lines segment recorded a renewal volume of US$ 504 million, a reduction of 12%.

In the marine, motor and property lines of business, Converium's renewed business increased by about 9%, reflecting strong relationships with clients and intermediaries as well as the diminished impact of the Company's current financial strength ratings. In more rating-sensitive lines of business such as credit & surety, general liability and professional liability, Converium recorded a decline in renewed business of 22%, 17% and 27%, respectively, primarily due to the cancellation of a small number of large-volume contracts. These movements were in line with the Company's expectations.

Significant expansion in Asia-Pacific, Eastern Europe and the Middle East; slight decline in Western European markets

In its Western European markets Converium's written and bound premium declined by around 4%, largely reflecting the restructuring of reinsurance programs towards non-proportional covers as well as Converium's decision not to renew business which did not meet its profitability targets. However, the Company recorded significant business growth, averaging more than 30%, in Asia-Pacific, Eastern Europe and the Middle East. The Company's growth in these areas is evidence of the robustness of its long-standing client and broker relationships as well as successful new business development. Converium's renewed premium volume in North America, written out of Europe, declined by approximately 32% as a result of the cancellation of liability business. Renewals in the property and property catastrophe lines of business, however, were in line with expectations and benefited from a significant market hardening in catastrophe-afflicted areas. Premium volume remained stable, with significantly improved rates, terms and conditions.

Growth in brokered and non-proportional business

During the January renewals, business generated through brokers grew by approximately 6% to around US$ 373 million. New business represents more than 20% of this total, testifying to Converium's successful efforts to broaden its broker channels. However, direct business declined by around 6% to US$ 755 million, largely because Converium's renewed proportional book, which is generally directly written, decreased by 6% to US$ 954 million. Non-proportional business, which is predominantly written through brokers, grew significantly by 17% to US$ 175 million. As a result, the overall share of non-proportional business increased from 13% to 16%, reflecting general market developments as well as Converium's efforts to capture attractive opportunities in non-proportional reinsurance.

Stable direct client base; increasing number of broker relationships

The January renewals saw Converium benefit from its established long-lasting direct client relationships, access to top decision-makers and a local market presence. These factors continue to underpin the Company's franchise and partially offset the disadvantage arising from its current financial strength ratings.

Converium is pleased that, despite the loss of a few larger client relationships, it successfully preserved its non-life treaty direct client base: Compared with July 2005, 98% of direct relationships were maintained. Converium even succeeded in increasing the total non-life treaty relationships through brokers by 8%, compared with July 2005. In conjunction with a solid base of direct client relationships this is expected to support future growth in target markets.

Continued adherence to profitability standards

In general, the January renewals were characterized by stable and attractive rates, terms and conditions. Significant improvements of market conditions were however limited to catastrophe-prone areas in North America and Continental Europe. Heightened competition was noticeable especially in areas where clients continued to retain more risk and to shift to non-proportional coverage. The fact that Converium chose to decline approximately 6% of the business offered to it in January 2006 demonstrates the Company's continued emphasis on the quality of its earnings. Converium retains its adherence to the imperative of technical underwriting.

Total gross premiums written for 2006 expected to reach US$ 1.8 to 1.9 billion

Following the January renewals, Converium reports total non-life expected premium income of US$ 1.54 billion, which is inclusive of US$ 410 million in non-life business up for renewal later this year. Including life & health business and in light of the expected pattern of later non-life renewals, Converium expects total gross premiums written for 2006 to reach US$ 1.8 to 1.9 billion. This figure also reflects a decline of approximately 8% due to foreign exchange rate developments between December 31, 2004 and December 31, 2005: The US dollar appreciated against most of the other currencies Converium writes business in, which reduced the Company's reported premium volume by approximately US$ 150 million.
