CEO Message FY2009

Dear colleagues,

For many years now we have said safety is our number one priority. Despite our efforts, eleven of our colleagues lost their lives while working for us in the last financial year. In this new financial year it is essential that we take action to deliver on our most fundamental commitment, which is our obligation to ensuring that each of us goes home safely at the end of each day. This is at the very core of our objectives for the coming year. Neither production nor financial results must ever come before safety.

Our offer for all of the shares in Rio Tinto will continue to play out during the months ahead as we go through the necessary regulatory approval processes. I firmly believe that the combination of BHP Billiton and Rio Tinto will create the world's premier diversified natural resources company and a unique opportunity to unlock value for both sets of shareholders. The next six months will be a key performance period for us and I ask you all to remain fully focused on achieving results in all aspects of your work. The operational results we achieve through your efforts will be a factor in the success of the transaction.

Our drive for simplicity will continue in FY2009. We must focus our efforts on activities that contribute directly to the things that matter. They are improved safety, production, growth, cost control, achieving market prices for our products and serving our customers.

From a corporate perspective, part of our commitment to simplification includes the implementation of our Operating Model. This will mean fewer and better defined interfaces between our Customer Sector Groups (CSGs) and Group Functions. This clarity is intended to free up our CSGs to pursue results and allow our Group Functions to provide the highest quality service. Our Group-Level Documentation (GLD) project will support the Operating Model, ensuring that accountabilities, interaction and minimum standards are clearly described. Many of you will be involved in developing the GLD policies, standards and procedures.

The Corporation Alignment Planning (CAP) framework has been successfully implemented across BHP Billiton. It is reflected in the way that our five year plans and budgets have been formulated. We are a natural resources company and continuing the discipline of high-quality integrated planning of our resources is critical to achieving good outcomes. This starts with resource development plans that enable us to identify the best ways to meet demand, and culminates in budgets for nearer-term delivery.

In addition to the items above I would urge us all to focus on the following key themes in FY2009:

1. Maximising production from our assets

Running each asset at 100 per cent of capacity, 100 per cent of the time, in a sustainable and disciplined way, is central to our success. I ask all CSGs to maximise our production, always respecting our overriding objective of Zero Harm.

2. Growing our business

Our strategy of focussing on Tier 1, low-cost and long-life assets will continue. We expect strong long-term growth in demand for our products and favourable supply-demand conditions. We have a growing capital expenditure program that will allow us to expand production from our world class resources. Delivering our growth pipeline on time and within budget is key to growing the value of our company.

3. Controlling our operating costs

The costs to produce our products have risen significantly in recent times and, for us, like for many other sectors, inflation is a real issue. Every effort must be made to control the costs associated with our businesses in a balanced way.

4. Achieving market prices for our products

Our base objective in this area is to achieve market clearing prices for all our products. This ensures fair outcomes for our customers and provides the incentives necessary for us to invest to meet their future needs. Further, we must remain focussed on serving our customers through the provision of high-quality products and distribution.

The year ahead will be both challenging and exciting for all of us. By working together we will all share in the continued success of this great company.

Marius Kloppers
