RE: Pre-Integration Planning Activities Off to Great Start in 2015

We want to extend our wishes for a happy and successful New Year to all employees. In December, we kicked off our Pre-Integration Planning, and, after a brief break for the holidays work has resumed and great progress is being made. We are encouraged by the collaboration we are seeing and are even more confident that this combination and our people will create one of the most successful pharmaceutical companies in the world.

Around the world, teams from both Actavis and Allergan have been meeting to help position the combined company to spring forward as a global leader in Growth Pharma. We would like to share some insight into the meetings, outcomes and work achieved to date.

International Commercial Teams Meet in Marlow, UK

On Tuesday and Wednesday January 6 and 7, leaders from Actavis and Allergan's international businesses met in Marlow, UK to architect the organization that will drive our combined company's expected $5.1 billion in annual international sales. The team focused on getting to know each other and each other's business, potential models and structures for the combined international organization, and preliminary sales and cost synergies.

By the end of the very productive two-day session, the teams had agreed on a draft commercial model for the combined international business. The model, which does not include any staffing or location decisions, envisions a one company approach in regions and countries with strong brand and generic representation. The countries and regions will have accountability for sales and profit performance to enhance customer centricity and business opportunity. This model will now be reviewed by the Integration Management Office and executives from both companies before sharing more broadly at the end of January. Once approved, the teams will then go back and consider staffing/location decisions, subject to usual information and consultation as per our agreements, which will be communicated once finalized.

Brands R&D Teams Meet in Jersey City, NJ, USA

Inspired by the opportunity to build a truly world-class R&D organization, Actavis and Allergan's brands R&D leadership teams also met January 6th and 7th in Jersey City. The agenda of this meeting followed a similar structure as the International Commercial Teams: understanding each other's business, exchanging initial ideas for a combined R&D organization and discussing opportunities for cost synergies.

The group agreed on a list of key deliverables, including committing to: forming a world-class combined R&D entity that leverages the best of both organizations; ensuring that the go-forward company is a fantastic place to work for R&D colleagues; maintaining ongoing operations without disruption, including ensuring pipelines progress appropriately; and meeting publicly-committed targets for R&D investment.

The team will now begin work to build the proposed combined organizational model and formulate the strategies for ensuring the achievement of key deliverables. Similar to the International Commercial group, no staffing or location decisions were discussed and those decisions will also be communicated once they are finalized.

U.S. Branded Rx and Medical Business Kickoff Meetings

The U.S. branded Rx and Medical leadership teams met on January 6th and 7th. In addition to getting to know each other and each teams' respective businesses, the participants spent time reviewing the key products and more than 20 upcoming potential product launches. This provided additional context for planning investment and resource allocation decisions for the combined company.

The teams also defined what success would look like for 2015 and beyond – double-digit sales growth, a more efficient organization, and consistent focus on customer satisfaction. To achieve this, the groups will focus on building businesses that leverage the best qualities of both Actavis and Allergan. The groups also emphasized the importance of maintaining business momentum and protecting customers from disruption.

Ongoing Team Meetings to Continue

Over the coming weeks, the Pre-Integration functional planning teams will continue to meet to discuss the combined functional organization designs, Day 1 priorities and interdependencies; and opportunities for cost synergies. We will continue to keep you updated on these teams and outcomes of their working sessions through memos and the Integration Update publication. Additionally, you have our commitment that any organizational structure, staffing and location decisions will be communicated as soon as those decisions are finalized. Please note that any proposals for staffing will be subject to information and consultation requirements where required by agreements or law.

Our excitement for the combination is building as we continue preparations for the expected combination of Actavis and Allergan in the coming months. The spirit and culture of the Actavis and Allergan leadership teams is driving very successful Pre-Integration planning activities. Our joint teams will continue to work together to make the combined company one of the most successful and revolutionary combinations in the history of the pharmaceutical industry.
