FITCH REVISES OUTLOOK ON PLDT'S LOCAL CURRENCY RATING TO STABLE

Fitch Ratings-Singapore/Sydney-08 September 2009: Fitch Ratings has today affirmed Philippine Long Distance Telephone Company's (PLDT) Long-term local currency (LC) IDR at 'BBB' and revised the rating Outlook to Stable from Negative. At the same time, Fitch has affirmed PLDT's Long-term foreign currency Issuer Default Rating (IDR) and the rating of its outstanding global bonds and senior notes at 'BB+'. The agency also affirmed the company's National Long-term rating at 'AAA(phl)'. The rating Outlook is Stable.

The Outlook revision on PLDT's LC IDR reflects diminished risk related to potential financial support for associate company Manila Electric Company (Meralco), at least over the near-term. Under the aegis of new major shareholders, PLDT and San Miguel Corporation (SMC), Meralco's operating prospects appear to have improved somewhat. Notably, the company has been able to raise distribution charges under performance-based regulation in Q209.

PLDT's ratings reflect its position as the Philippines' incumbent operator, with diversified and integrated telecommunications operations, as well as growing operations in call centres and business process outsourcing. The company holds a leading share of fixed-line subscribers (around 60%) and a dominant share (approximately 67%) of the nascent broadband market. Fitch expects fixed-line services to remain a core contributor to earnings and cash flow over the medium term, with strong demand for fixed-data, offsetting substitution pressures on traditional voice services.

PLDT's cellular business is the main driver of its consolidated profile, accounting for 61% of revenue and 69% of EBITDA in H109. Although the Philippines cellular market is now quite mature in terms of the addressable populace, subscription growth remained strong in H109. Total subscribers increased to 38.5 million as at H109 from 35.2m at FY08, implying an annualised growth of 19% and a market share of 52%. However, Fitch notes that PLDT's medium-term growth prospects are modest since penetration of subscriber identification modules are now at a high of approximately 82%.

The ratings also take into account rising industry risks, with potential for increased competition from new entrant, SMC, over the medium-term, as well as heightened regulatory risks in light of recent directives on prepaid-cellular load extension and on the change in the unit of billing for cellular services.

At H109, PLDT's net adjusted leverage (defined as total adjusted debt net of cash by Operating EBITDAR) stood at 0.5x and FFO by Gross Interest Expense stood at 14.0x. "The rating factors in a slight weakening in credit protection measures for FY09, which mainly reflects PLDT's acquisition of an additional 20% stake in Meralco," said Priya Gupta, Director in Fitch's Asia-Pacific telecommunications, media and technology group.

Exhibit 1

"While this increase in leverage can be accommodated at PLDT's current local currency rating of 'BBB', there is virtually no headroom for further debt-funded acquisitions of material size," she added. The ratings are likely to come under downward pressure if the agency expects PLDT's net adjusted leverage to exceed 1.0x on a sustainable basis or its post-dividend FCF to turn negative.

PLDT's local currency rating of 'BBB'/Stable (which exceeds the sovereign local currency rating by two notches) ignores foreign currency transfer and convertibility risk, and is more reflective of its stand-alone credit profile. In terms of its foreign currency IDR, PLDT remains constrained by the Philippines' country ceiling, which is currently 'BB+'. The National rating of 'AAA(phil)' incorporates all the above factors and is indicative of PLDT's relative credit strength among all Philippine companies.
