TSMC Statement

Regarding the report in today's Chinese-language Economic Daily News headlined "Shipments on Alert; May Erode Q2 Results", which was based on Chairman Dr. Morris Chang's comments of March 16, TSMC would like to make the following clarification in order to avoid any misunderstanding by investors who may be misled by either the head-line or the report itself.

The impact of the recent earthquake and tsunami in Japan on TSMC's operations is under control. While we do not exclude the possibility that this earthquake and its follow-on effects may impact the global electronics supply chain, TSMC believes that the impact will be brief, as we believe that global demand for electronics end-products remains strong. Should the demand be temporarily suppressed due to an unstable supply chain, the market will quickly meet this pent-up demand once the supply chain returns to normal.
