Frank A. Martin, Chief Executive Officer of I-trax, and Haywood D. Cochrane, Jr., the Chief Executive Officer of Meridian Occupational Healthcare Associates, Inc. (d/b/a CHD Meridian Healthcare), to discuss the recently announced merger agreement between CHD Meridian and I-trax, pursuant to which CHD Meridian would merge with and into a wholly owned subsidiary of I-trax. On the conference call, Mr. Martin and Mr. Cochrane discussed the following aspects of their respective businesses:

- o At this time, CHD Meridian is providing its service to approximately 25% of its clients' employee and dependent population. CHD Meridian and I-trax's management believe that the combined companies could expand their relationships with CHD Meridian's existing clients by offering I-trax's services to the remaining 75% of those clients' employee and dependent population.
- o The combined companies expect to experience "top line" and "bottom line" growth of approximately 20% year over year over the following three years.
- o CHD Meridian's 2003 revenues are expected to be approximately $182 million, of which approximately $85 million will come from its pharmacy business, approximately $45 to $50 million will come from its primary care business, approximately $30 to $35 million will come from its occupational health business and $10 to $15 million will come from its corporate health business. CHD Meridian anticipates 2003 earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization of approximately $6.7 million. CHD Meridian is a calendar year company.
- o CHD Meridian's current service contracts are structured as "cost plus." This model generates profitability margins of approximately 15% to 20%. CHD Meridian management believes that with regard to certain of its existing clients and certain potential clients there is an opportunity to improve these margins by structuring contracts such that CHD Meridian receives a percentage of long term savings generated by CHD Meridian's programs. The latter structure is similar to that employed by I-trax.
- o Upon consummation of the transaction, the combined companies will show goodwill of approximately $34 million.
- o A tape of today's conference call will be available through February 15th by calling 800-642-1687 and referencing the conference ID number of 4723072.
